HOW THE RANKINGS WORK

The OECD Sub-Area Rankings ranks a list of foreign institutions according to their level of scientific productivity in the respective OECD Sub-Area.

Depending on where the institution is located within each ranking, it receives a score between 1 and 5 points, according to the scale used by CONICYT. This score will be used in scholarship competitions abroad (Becas Chile) to assess the evaluation criterion.

Academic institutions ranked in the top 100 will receive a score equal to 5 points.
