TEACHING'S THEIR CAREER

108 Students
settle in

Frankston's new Teachers' College opened last Thursday with an enrollment of 108 students. They form one group of a total of about 1500 student-teachers who have entered the Victorian Education Department's teachers' colleges this year.

Admission tests are usually open to all teachers in training. The total number of students in the various institutions is approximately 2000.

When the college started at Frankston, the principal, Mr. Warwick Eason, welcomed the students to the service. He pointed out the historic incident in that the college was the first to be established in the Peninsula.

As part of their training the students are being drafted out on teaching work to district schools, Derriford, Frankston East, Ovenside, and Carrick. The first annual conference will meet next week.

Teachers' College opens at Frankston

The one hundred and eight students who commenced training at the Frankston Teachers' Training College on Thursday, February 17, are part of the large group of 1500 new students who will be in their first year of training as teachers.

Frankston, with Colberg Training College, which opened on the same day, now brings the total of primary teachers' colleges in Victoria to eight, and in those colleges there are approximately 4,000 students.

Students at Frankston were welcomed by the teaching profession and by the college in particular by the principal, Mr. Watson.

Plans are in hand for the building of the new college and the students' board on the 17 acres of land at the corner of Springs and Anneton's Roads, Frankston. It is anticipated that the college will be built this year, but the accommodation facilities will be commenced before 1960.

Commencing next Monday groups of students will attend schools in the Frankston area for an introduction to teaching.

The schools have been chosen, three at Frankston, three at Colberg, Eastwood Road, and one each at Cayton and Surfside. Students will be divided into two groups. These groups will remain in college while the study is at a school prior to a rotation of classes at work.

This will be an introduction period only and they will not be actual teachers.

Claire-ly Schwager, of Clayton, was the first student teacher to arrive at the newly - opened Frankston Teachers' College.

Plans are in hand for the building of the new college and the students' hostel on the 27 acres of land at the corner of Hastings and McMahon's Roads, Frankston.

It is anticipated that the college will be built this year, but the accommodation hostel will not be commenced before 1960.

Commencing next Monday, groups of students will attend schools in the Frankston area for an introduction to teaching.

Five schools have been chosen, three at Frankston, Davey Street, Frankston East and Overport Road, and one each at Carrum and Seaford.

Students will be divided into four groups. Three groups will remain in college whilst the fourth is at a school gaining a picture of classes at work.

This will be an introductory period only and they will not do much teaching.

COLLEGE OPENS TOMORROW

The new Washburn Training College at the corner of Milwaukee and Hennepin, will open tomorrow (Thursday, February 11). Between 100 and 125 students will attend.

The location of the college will be the former business home of Dr. Hanson.

The Education Department purchased an acre of 25 acres of the site of the mansion, and on the land a new modern college will be built and ready for occupation before the end of the year.

The acting lecturer at Washburn Training College, Mr. Warren Cannon, will be the principal of the college. The school has a staff of 11 teachers.

DIRECTOR WELCOMES STUDENT TEACHERS

During a recent assembly of the Franklin Teachers' College students and members of the staff listened to a welcoming speech by the Director of Education, Mr. Ramsey.

The director was introduced by the principal of the college, Mr. W. Emson, who referred to Mr. Ramsey's distinguished war record and his inspiring character.

Commenting on his address with a colorful description of his own early teaching career, Mr. Ramsey was able to make the students realize how favorably their conditions of training compared with those of some years ago. Many members of that class had not even been aware of their own school being trained at the Middlesex Teachers' College was the only teaching institution, and could only be a limited number of students each.

A great consideration was paid to the students when the visitor stated that the whole body of teachers, of which they would soon be part, was the most important portion of the educational system. All his listeners were impressed by the devotion already behind this statement.

In reference to the difficult conditions under which the new college was working, the director announced that both students and staff by being of the spirit of good will and co-operation which rapidly grows up among "peers."

DIRECTOR VISITS TRAINING COLLEGE

Student teachers at the Franklin Teachers' Training College were welcomed to the teaching profession by the Director of Education, Major-General A. Ramsey, C.B.E., D.S.O., E.D., R.N., Dip. He paid the new college a visit recently.

He was introduced to the students by the Principal, Mr. W. Emson, who commended the Director on his liberality and inspiring character.

"There is nothing so great as to see every boy do his own best," said Mr. Ramsey.

Addressing the students, Major-General Ramsey gave a colorful description of his early teaching career, comparing our training methods then with now.

He commended the excellent progress that the students of teachers of which they would soon be a part, was the most important feature of the educational system.

The Director was highly impressed with the strong character of the students.

Referring to the efficient teaching methods which they were working at Franklin, he encouraged both students and staff by reminding them that progress and co-operation were the main factors.

He concluded by wishing them well in their studies and later work.

1/4 M. EXPANSION AT TEACHERS' COLLEGE

Fourteen ultra-modern lecture-rooms and a commodious library in a block 202 feet long, all sound-proofed and air-conditioned, are part of the new Teachers' College being built in McMaths Road, Frankston, for the Victorian Education Department.

There are five air-conditioned air-locks at the College in temporary quarters, five more at the end of P. St. Vincent, but when the second phase are finished, including a hotel, 500 will be accommodated.

Dr. W. P. Mack, M.B.E., president of the State of Teachers and Students (S.T.S.), a Governor and other members, leaders, business men and women and many other representative citizens were entertained at a dinner given by the Principal, Mr. Warwick Bannister last Wednesday.

Mr. Mack received the guests in one of the temporary lecture rooms. Later the guests were shown the site and the buildings in course of construction.

The Education Department bought 17 acres of land from Dr. Vincent before the death, and his executors agreed to sell the property which is clearly shown for a school site.

The students are being trained exclusively for primary education.

Two classrooms are being built in a separate building planned by the Victoria Trusts Trust.

The Government has allocated £100,000 for the new block in course of construction, including the cost of the installation of electric and water and sewage.

Timber has not yet been ordered for the construction of the block, most of which would be of brick.

Two sports grounds are to be graded and grassed. Tennis and basketball courts are also planned.

The teacher that will be ready for use in a few months, but other activities will have to wait until the site is available.

A 200-foot corridor across the lecture rooms from the main administration building.

Most of the rooms have already been either of the Department of Public Works

Advisory committee suggested

Mr. Bannister introduced the members and members of the administration staff accordingly to conduct the school year a short address on what was happening and what was going to happen in a year which, he said, an officer of the Public Works Department claimed was the most critical for the project in Victoria.

"We must have cooperation in our temporary quarters, said Mr. Bannister," added Mr. Bannister. "We must have the cooperation of the staff and the public."

"You to ask the largest teacher's union in Victoria, and we are not sure if we should be. We have to ask the staff too."

Mr. Bannister said students were being on Melbourne, Victoria, South Australia, South West, Western Australia, and Western Victoria with leaving Conference were given the address and the future policy of the Education Department would be the best-possible preparation for the future to be undertaken. They would give the students the program of a University college.

Participation of an Advisory Committee of Management was suggested by Mr. Bannister.

Mr. Bannister said he was sure the committee would help the administration with constructive advice on the development of the college. He said the committee would be the center was what he felt was progress, and the future of the college.

"That was why he had invited so many representatives of the staff and the community who was going on."

"All activities like this are the progress of education," he said. Bannister added "We will have a better understanding of the future and we will be ready to receive the staff."

Mr. Bannister said that the staff would be the center of the future of the college. He said the staff would be the center of the future of the college. He said the staff would be the center of the future of the college.

It was not clear that the Government could shoulder the whole of the responsibility for education.

Dr. Chivers assured Mr. Bannister that the Government would be ready to take the staff and the staff to the staff.

£¼ M. EXPANSION AT TEACHERS' COLLEGE

Fourteen ultra-modern lecture-rooms and a commodious library in a block 392 feet long, all sound-proofed and air-conditioned, are part of the new Teachers' College being built in McMahons Road, Frankston, for the Victorian Education Department.

There are now 100 students at the College in temporary quarters (the home of the late Dr. P. R. Vincent), but when the overall plans are finished, including a hostel, 500 will be accommodated.

Cr. W. P. Mair, M.L.C., president of the Shire of Frankston and Hastings (Cr. A. Gowans) and other councillors, bankers, businessmen and women and many other representative citizens were entertained at afternoon tea by the Principal (Mr. Warwick Eunson) last Wednesday.

Mr. Eunson received the guests in one of the temporary lecture rooms. Later the guests were shown round the buildings in course of construction.

The Education Department bought 17 acres of land from Dr. Vincent before his death, and ten more acres adjacent to this property which is ideally situated for a college.

The students are being trained exclusively for primary education.

Two gymnasiums are being built in a separate building running parallel to the lecture rooms block.

The Government has allocated £120,000 for the two blocks in course of construction, excluding the cost of the installation of electric light, power and fittings.

Tenders have not yet been called for the construction of the hostel, cost of which could exceed £180,000.

Two sports grounds are to be graded and grassed. Tennis and basketball courts are also planned.

The hockey field will be ready for use in a few months, but other amenities will have to wait until finance is available.

A 392 foot corridor serves the lecture rooms from the main administrative section.

Most of the rooms have glorious views either of the Dandenong Ranges or the foreshores of Port Phillip Bay.

Advisory committee suggested

Mr. Eunson introduced the lecturers and members of the administrative staff individually to visitors. He then gave a short address on what was happening, and what was going to happen on a site which, he said, an officer of the Public Works Department claimed was the most suitable for the purpose in Victoria.

"We went into occupation in our temporary quarters last February," added Mr. Eunson. "We found this most convenient. We could have 400 students on the roll next year.

"This is not the largest teacher's college in Victoria, and we are not anxious it ever should be. We have 24 on the staff now."

Mr. Eunson said students were lectured on Education, English, Social Science, Music, Art, Physical Education and Science.

Students with Leaving Certificates were eligible for admission, but the future policy of the Education Department would lift the academic qualification for eligibility to matriculation standard. That would give the institution the prestige of a University college.

Formation of an Advisory Committee of Representative Citizens was suggested by Mr. Eunson.

Mr. Eunson said he was sure the community could help the administration with constructive advice on the development of the college.

Future co-operation between the community and the college was vital to its welfare, progress, and cultural expansion.

That was why he had invited so many representative citizens to meet the staff and see for themselves what was going on.

"All meetings like this one are journeys to understanding," Mr. Eunson added. "We are training youth, and we want a better understanding between youth and maturity in relation to education."

Mr. Eunson said there were eight teachers' colleges in Victoria without such a committee as he had suggested. Frankston was in a transitional stage. It was no longer a country town. He would welcome shire councillors on the committee.

It was not right that the Government should shoulder the whole of the responsibility for education.

Cr. Gowans assured Mr. Eunson shire councillors would co-operate with the college staff to the limit of their ability.

Dear Mr. _____

You are doubtless aware that a new educational venture has begun in Frankston, and are proud that your town has been selected for the site of the newest Teachers' College in this state.

We do feel, however, that many local residents have not had the opportunity to see this establishment, and would perhaps be glad to visit the college, meet the staff and students, see the progress on the site, and hear something of our work and plans for the future. On our side, we would like to meet you, too.

Would you then accept this as an invitation to you and your wife to visit the College on the afternoon of Wednesday, September 23rd at 2.30 p.m. for an Informal At Home?

We do hope that you will be able to come, and would appreciate it if you would reply on the form below by September 17th.

PLANS READY FOR
NEW £270,000
TEACHERS' COLLEGE

The principal, Mr. W. G. Wilkinson and Mr. Paul Watt, M.A.C., examine plans of the new District Teachers' College at Frankston.

The Teachers' Training College, located in temporary quarters at present, includes some excellent teachers from the City of Christchurch. Construction of new buildings for over £270,000 is already well advanced.

A Government grant of £125,000 will be received by the end of the year, and the balance of the cost will be met by the Government of New Zealand. The Government and the City of Christchurch are expected to contribute the balance of the cost.

The staff will be recruited from all over the country.

PLANS READY FOR NEW £270,000 TEACHERS' COLLEGE

The principal, Mr. W. Eunson and Mr. Phil. Mair, M.L.C. examine plans of the new District Teachers' College at Frankston.

The Teachers' Training College, housed in temporary quarters at present, includes many student teachers from the City of Chelsea. Construction of new buildings, to cost £150,000, is already well advanced.

A three-storey, brick hostel estimated to cost £120,000 will be erected later, to make the college one of the best appointed in Victoria. Between 300 and 400 students are expected next year, and the number will rise to 600 in four years.

The staff next year will increase from 25 to 30.

£1 MILLION EXPANSION AT TEACHERS' COLLEGE

The principal of the Frankfurt Teachers' Training College, Mr. W. Eason, told representatives of Frankfurt and Hastings Times, the daily, other public citizens and the Press last Tuesday that buildings costing £110,000 were under construction at the college.

Mr. Eason told a three-storey lecture hall would be completed today at an estimated cost of £100,000, making the college one of the best in the State.

The lecture hall construction would consist of three lecture lecture blocks and offices, an administration block and a physical education block, which would also contain rooms for chemistry use.

The large programme would be able to accommodate a full-time four-year course.

He said that extensive alterations were being undertaken by the Public Works Department and provision was made in the plans for two years' period for a lecture hall.

These facilities would help reduce the congestion in the sports grounds for the schools in the district.

Mr. Eason stated that the influence of the college stretched far wider than Frankfurt. He said that five of the Frankfurt and district schools were in use and it was anticipated that more were would be used by 1955.

Students for the college were drawn from an area south of Frankfurt, Canfield, and extending to Epping and the Harington Parklands, but the full cooperation of the district would be necessary for the college to function as an educational establishment.

He said that it was hoped that the college would be able to take part in such activities as all-Isle track, dramatic festivals and local sporting activities.

particularly with teacher students being available.

Mr. Eason said that the college possessed considerable grounds, extending to 100 acres, and there was a parking area of five acres for the buildings.

The availability of some twenty accommodation in a former cinema house had relieved many of the housing difficulties.

He said it was hoped that some form of primary and secondary education might be established to help the college play an important part in the district's economy and employment and that the college would be self-sufficient in the future.

It was stated that the buildings planned for construction would be available for occupation next year, owing to the cooperation of the district, and that the college would begin next year.

The new lecture hall would be 100 ft. in length and the extension would be used as an assembly hall for 500.

The students would have recreation rooms and lecture rooms as well as a library and it was hoped that a centre of research would be established.

NEW BUILDINGS

New ground would be planned from the corner of McMullen's and Hastings.

He said that at the present time there were 110 students attending the college and between 100 and 150 were expected next year, rising to 200 in two years.

The college was the only one of its kind in the district and for the last 10 years had been the district primary teacher's training centre and the three-year course for the district's district teachers' education.

However, it was fully aware that in a very short time all districts would be on a minimum of three years, requiring the equivalent of secondary standards.

There was at present a waiting list of 20 at the college, standing at 100 would Mr. Eason, assistant principal, Mr. A. H. Fox, Miss G. Hancock, Mr. G. Brock, Mr. F. Egan, Mr. J. Gower, Mr. G. Gower, Mr. E. Wally, Mr. H. McMullen and Mr. P. Lamb.

It was anticipated that the 1955 and 1956 year would maintain from 25 to 30.

The city council, C. A. Gower, Chairman, Mr. Gower, in behalf of the council and agreed that the college would be known as a first-class institution.

Following attention for about 20 people were contacted on an inspection of the buildings.

£ $\frac{1}{4}$

MILLION EXPANSION AT TEACHERS' COLLEGE

The principal of the Frankston Teachers' Training College, Mr. W. Eunson, told representatives of Frankston and Hastings Shire, the clergy, other public citizens and the Press last Tuesday that buildings costing £150,000 were under construction at the college.

Mr. Eunson said a three-storey brick hostel would be erected later at an estimated cost of £120,000, making the college one of the best in the State.

The buildings under construction would consist of three blocks: lecture block, containing 12 lecture rooms and offices, an administration block and a physical education block, which would also contain rooms for students' use.

The large gymnasium would be able to accommodate a full-sized basketball court.

He said that extensive site works were being undertaken by the Public Works Department and provision was made in the plans for two ovals including a hockey field.

These facilities would help relieve the congestion in the sports grounds for the schools in the district.

Mr. Eunson stated that the influence of the college stretched far wider than Frankston. He said that five of the Frankston and district schools were in use and it was anticipated that seven more would be used for 1960.

Students for the college were drawn from an area south of North-rd., Caulfield, and extending to Dandenong and the Mornington Peninsula, but the full co-operation of the district would be necessary for the college to function as an educational establishment.

He said that it was hoped that the college would be able to take part in such functions as art festivals, dramatic festivals and local sporting activities.

particularly when resident students were available.

Mr. Eunson said that the college considered itself fortunate regarding its site, as the total area comprised 27 acres and there was a perfect view of the bay and the Dandenongs.

The availability of temporary accommodation in a former mansion home had relieved many of the housing difficulties.

He said it was hoped that some form of parents' and citizens' committee might be established to help the college play its rightful part in such a thriving community and emphasised that the committee would be fully representative of the district.

It was certain that the buildings already under construction would be available for occupation next year, owing to the co-operation of the builders, and work on the hostels would begin next year.

The new lecture block would be 396 ft. in length and the gymnasium would be used as an assembly hall to seat 500.

The students would have recreation rooms and locker rooms as well as showers and it was hoped that a canteen or cafeteria would be established.

600 STUDENTS?

New access roads were planned from the corner of McMahon's and Hastings-rd

He said that at the present time there were 110 students attending the college and between 300 and 400 were expected next year, rising to 600 in four years.

The courses were for either two or three years—the two-year course for the trained primary teacher's certificate and the three-year course for the trained infant teacher's certificate.

However, it was fairly definite that in a very short time all courses would be for a minimum of three years, requiring the equivalent of university standard.

There was at present a teaching staff of 10 at the college, consisting of: principal, Mr. W. Eunson; assistant principal, Mr. A. H. Fry; Miss G. Kentish, Mr. D. Boyd, Mr. T. Digman, Mr. J. Sherwill, Mr. B. Gleeson, Mr. T. Wells, Mrs. M. McMahon and Mr. P. Ladd.

It was anticipated that the staff next year would increase from 25 to 30.

The shire president, Cr. A. Gowans, thanked Mr. Eunson on behalf of those present and assured him that the council would be happy to assist in every possible way.

Following afternoon tea, about 50 people were conducted on an inspection of the buildings.

EDUCATION OFFICIAL AT COLLEGE BALL

Education officials were amongst the guests at the Frankston Teachers' College inaugural ball, held at the Mentone Town Hall last Tuesday night week.

The guests included Mr. Ramsay, Director of Education, and Mrs. Ramsay, Cr. Mair, M.L.C., and Mrs. Mair, Chairman of the Teachers' Tribunal, Mr. Garlick, and Mrs. Garlick, the principals of the Secondary Teachers' College, Larnook Domestic Arts College, and Coburg Teachers' College.

Miss Lowndes, Principal of the Coburg Teachers' College, is the first woman principal to be appointed to a Primary Teachers' College in Victoria.

Others present included Mr. and Mrs. Crosthwaite, and the President of the Victorian Teacher's Union, Mr. Warrick, and Mrs. Warrick.

Guests were welcomed by President of the College, Mr. Bill Martin, and the Vice-President Miss Rosemary Day.

Miss Day looked charming in a ballerina length stiffened white nylon dress and blue stole.

Noticed among the Frankston girls were Coral Wheeler in delicate pink, Harriet Bolte wearing white, and Robyn Stirling in a floral frock in soft tonings.

Two of the season's debutantes looked particularly radiant. Margaret Tynan wore glittering white tulle, and Lorette Young chose a Grecian style frock.

Mr. Jim Drake and his social committee are congratulated on the success of the first College Ball.

Teachers hold first Ball

Members of the recently-established Teachers' College at Frankston held their inaugural ball at the Mentone Town Hall on Tuesday, July 14. Blue and white seahorses formed the motif of the decorations and adorned the tables.

Among the guests were the Director of Education, Mr. Ramsay, and Mrs. Ramsay, Mr. W. Mair, M.L.C., and Mrs. Mair, the chairman of the Teachers' Tribunal, Mr. Garlick, and Mrs. Garlick, also the principals of the Secondary Teachers' College, the Technical Teachers' College, Larnook Domestic Arts College, the Coburg Teachers' College, Mr. and Mrs. Crosthwaite, well known in educational circles in Frankston, and Mr. Warrick, president of the Victorian Teachers' Union, and Mrs. Warrick.

Guests were welcomed by Mr. Bill Martin, president of the college, and Miss Rosemary Day, vice-president.

Among the guests were Frankston girls Coral Wheeler, Harriet Bolte and Robyn Sterling, and two of this season's debutantes, Margaret Tynan and Loretta Young.

Mr. Jim Drake and his social committee are to be congratulated on this successful first ball of the college.

ANOTHER GROUP included

Veterans' secretary talks to students

Mr. Percy Hosking, will secretary Executive Jewell, was in company of the Veterans Car Club of Lafayette, visited the faculty of administration and held arrivals in student quarters at the Young College last Wednesday.

He told the students that although several attempts were made to purchase a newer Cadillac in the 1917 vintage, it was not until the 1918 vintage that any such machine was successfully purchased.

He said that the early lead had been secured through such as Project, was used for the machine.

The car was powered by a six-cylinder engine, but there were no in the maintenance of the machine engine, which was well used today.

Mr. Hosking said that all cars constructed before 1917 were known as vintage cars, while those manufactured between 1917-20 were vintage models.

He also said a 1918 Cadillac, which could be used if it is a good machine, but it was not purchased from America by a Mr. Tom of the Executive Society.

The president of the student body said that the car was used as a walking car in that year in that it could only hold the man and his dog when it was purchased in 1917.

He said that the car is a vintage model, and that it is a good machine, and that it is a good machine.

Mr. Hosking concluded by saying to the students that the car's name was "The car" to be used, but it helps.

Veterans' secretary talks to students

Mr. Percy Hosking, well-known Frankston jeweller, who is secretary of the Veteran Car Club of Victoria, outlined the history of automobiles and their creators to student teachers at the Training College last Wednesday.

He told the students that although several attempts were made to produce a horseless carriage in the 18th century, it was not until the 19th century that any such machine was successfully manufactured.

Britain took the early lead but Continental companies, such as Peugeot, soon seized the initiative.

The first cars were powered by steam engines, but these gave way to the more practical internal combustion engines, which were still used today.

Mr. Hosking said that all cars manufactured before 1917 were known as veteran models, while those manufactured between 1917-38 were vintage models.

His own car, a 1905 Cadillac, which could do about 50 m.p.h. when stripped for racing, was imported from America by a Mr. Tye (of the furniture family).

He pointed out that the car travelled at walking pace in first gear so that it could stay behind the man with the red flag who was supposed to precede it.

He bought the car in a dilapidated condition for less than £100, and spent more than 800 hours in restoring it to its original state.

Mr. Hosking concluded by telling the students that the club's motto was: "You don't have to be mad, but it helps."

1. THE COLLEGE ANTHEM

Hail to our College!—with hearts brave and hopeful,
Strong for life's battles we leave its old walls;
Eager where light hands of pleasure are beck'ning,
But ever responsive when stern duty calls.

Chorus:

Non omnis moriar, non omnis moriar!
All is not mortal; let us be gay;
That which is best in us—great thoughts,
Deeds glorious—ne'er will decay.

Hail to our fallen, their spirits triumphant,
Faithful to duty, not fearing to die;
They give to our College a glory unfading,
A new note of triumph resounds in our cry.

2. A COMMEMORATION OF THE FALLEN

(Unison)

O God, Who art not the God of the dead but of the living, and Who dost swallow up death for ever, we thank Thee for the hope of life that is eternal. We bless Thee for the fellowship of the unseen; for those who are gone into the world of light; who see Thy face and serve Thee still. Their heroism and their sacrifice, their deeds and their endurance shall be the heritage of children's children. With humble hearts and memories and lowly pride we commemorate before Thee those who have fallen in the war.

"Blessed are the peacemakers, for they shall be called the sons of God."

IN MEMORY—

(Group)

Of all the gallant soldiers, brave sailors, undaunted airmen, who have been faithful even unto death.

IN MEMORY—

(Group)

Of poets who left their unsung songs, and did the deeds that shall make others' songs.
Of those who dropped their instruments of music and the tools of art.
Of students who forsook the cloistered paths of learning and in a sterner road laid down their lives.

IN MEMORY—

(Group)

Of men of science who, through sacrifice, have found the truths of life and death and immortality.

Of statesmen who passed from the Senate House to serve upon the field and came not back.

IN MEMORY—

(Group)

Of those who came from shop and office at the urgent call.
Of men who left their husbandry and daily craft.
And of the poor, whom their country gave no heritage, who yet have died for it.

IN MEMORY—

(Group)

Of those who died fulfilling ministries of help and healing.
Of chaplains, doctors, nurses, and workers under the Red Cross, who saved others, but themselves they did not save.

IN MEMORY—

(Group)

Of seamen of the transport and merchant services who went down with their boats,
Of fishermen who left their nets to sweep destruction from the seas,
Of workers who in dangerous tasks met accident and death,
And of all innocent and helpless lives that have been sacrificed.

IN MEMORY—

(Group)

Of our own, our dearest and our best,
Beloved sons and brothers, fathers, husbands, friends,
Dear names for ever written in our hearts.

(Unison)

The work we do is harder for their absence; the road we tread is lonelier for their passing. We trust to meet them at the journey's end; we lift to Thee the sorrows of our homes. Give us the grace to make the sacrifice complete. Aid us to live as faithfully and bravely as they died, to cherish their memories in living monuments, and greatly to resolve to build the city of their ideals in the land for which they gave themselves.

3. READING OF THE COLLEGE HONOUR ROLL

4. "ANZAC DAY" (Remembrance Day)

We would remember them to-day,
Who from their homeland sailed away,
So blithely and so willingly
To give their lives for you and me;
Father, guard their sleeping.

We would remember, too, the brave,
Who of their dearest treasures gave:
Their solace in the years to be,
Pride in a lonely memory,
Hear their quiet weeping.

Then there are those who lived apart:
The maimed, the blind, the sad at heart;
Raise for them, in their time of need,
Friends who are friends in very deed,
Have them in Thy keeping.

5. READING OF (a) CAPT. W. R. HOGGART'S LETTER

Written prior to landing at Gallipoli.

(b) H. R. BRODIE'S POEM—"An Airman's Prayer"

6. "RECESSIONAL"

God of our fathers, known of old—
Lord of our far-flung battle line—
Beneath whose awful hand we hold
Dominion over palm and pine—
Lord God of hosts, be with us yet,
Lest we forget—lest we forget!

The tumult and the shouting dies—
The captains and the kings depart;
Still stands Thine ancient sacrifice,
An humble and a contrite heart.
Lord God of hosts, be with us yet,
Lest we forget—lest we forget!

ANZAC DAY AT FRANKTON TEACHERS' COLLEGE

College passed for a few quiet moments last Wednesday, to reflect on the immense sacrifices which the Australian nation has made in the past to preserve for us of the present generation the right to determine our own destiny, free from foreign domination. As we thought of the thousands of young men who had offered their lives in this cause; of the women who had supported them; of civilians in other parts of the Commonwealth who faced terrifying bombardment from the skies in order to maintain the nation's independence. We hoped we would prove worthy guardians of such a heritage as ours.

The reading of a letter written by Captain Haggart who enlisted in the First World War, brought back vivid memories of the solemn occasion it was written when he was aboard the transport "Daryalus", early in the morning of the landing at Gallipoli. He spoke of the wonderful serenity of his men as they talked of home and their loved ones; each man believed he would survive the ordeal which was before him. Captain Haggart made the supreme sacrifice.

In his moving poem, "An Airman's Prayer", E. R. Brodie, a young teacher airman of the 2nd World War asks simply for the strength to die; the enemy, he knows was loved by his own, as Brodie was loved.

The sounding of the Last Post and the Reveille preceded the laying of the wreath in the hall.

EARLY DAYS AT FRANKSTON

Students at the Teachers' Training College at Frankston were told last week by ex-Cr. Frank Wells that he could remember when shops in Bay-st. could be bought for £200 or two for £300.

No more able person could have been approached to give such an address because ex-Cr. Wells has lived at Frankston all his life. His grandparents arrived in Australia in 1841, settling at Sorrento. The trip to Australia was their honeymoon and took six months. They were among the first settlers on the Mornington Peninsula and ex-Cr. Wells' aunt, the late Mrs. David Kato, was the first white female born on the Peninsula.

Ex-Cr. Wells was born in Frankston in 1888.

In his opening remarks he told his listeners that before 1888 there was a land boom. When it broke there was a widespread depression.

FIRST INDUSTRY

The early industry of Frankston was the manufacture of bricks and wood, but when the depression struck these works closed down the "hard times" affected the Peninsula adversely.

BULLOCK BEATS FOR TEACHERS

Travel in the days of his youth was chiefly by bullock and horse carts. The road to Melbourne was constructed of earth, and his five and a half year was unacceptably difficult. Many journeyed to Melbourne in the old carts which would not and from Melbourne daily.

DEPRESSION CAUSED LOW PRICES

The depression resulted in low prices. The average weekly wage was 22 $\frac{1}{2}$ pence, 24, or 25, per pound, a 4-lb. loaf of bread was 4 $\frac{1}{2}$ a 7 $\frac{1}{2}$ lb. bag of sugar 35 $\frac{1}{2}$, and a 200 lb. bag of flour 15 $\frac{1}{2}$. A lot of men, the size of a "carter pony," cost 8 $\frac{1}{2}$. Wood was £1 a ton and coal was cut at 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ per ton. Shops in Bay-st., Frankston, were sold at £20 each, or less for £100.

WORKING BOYS WERE LONG

Ex-Cr. Wells was employed by the Frankston and Hastings Shire council during a horse and dog trial hour daily for 15-20 days for his services and the use of the horse and dog. He had work again at 4 AM. There were other people who worked at horse trials.

Ex-Cr. Wells then went on to tell of some of the early practitioners. Oliver's Mill, for instance, was named after a depression, James Orvis. Presumably it was known as Davy's Mill.

BLACKS IN C.W.A. MEET

When asked whether many aborigines were living on the Peninsula, he replied that there were only a few, but only aborigines were held on the site of the present C.W.A. hall.

He concluded an enjoyable talk by saying that the worst time of the present generation would ever experience the miseries of depression.

"During the depression Frankston was a town of James Curran," he said.

BULLOCK DRAYS FOR TRANSPORT

Travel in the days of his youth was chiefly by bullock and horse drays. The road to Melbourne was constructed of earth and tea-tree and travel was understandably difficult. Many journeyed to Melbourne in the fish carts which went to and from Melbourne daily.

DEPRESSION CAUSED LOW PRICES

The depression resulted in low prices. The average weekly wage was 25/. Pork was 3d. or 4d. per pound; a 4-lb. loaf of bread was 4d.; a 70 lb. bag of sugar 10/-, and a 200 lb bag of flour 13/. A bar of soap, the size of a "corner post," cost 6d. Wood was 7/- a two-ton load and was cut at 1/6 per ton. Shops in Bay-st., Frankston, were sold at £200 each, or two for £300.

WORKING HOURS WERE LONG

Ex-Cr. Wells was employed by the Frankston and Hastings Shire council

driving a horse and dray eight hours daily for 7/- per day for his services and the use of the horse and dray. He said work began at 8 a.m. There were other people who worked 10 hours daily.

Ex-Cr. Wells then went on to tell of some of the early personalities. Oliver's Hill, for instance, was named after a fisherman, James Oliver. Previously it was known as Davey's Hill.

BLACKS ON C.W.A. SITE

When asked whether many aborigines were living on the Peninsula, he replied that there were only a few, but early corroborees were held on the site of the present C.W.A. hall.

He concluded an enjoyable talk by saying that he hoped none of the present generation would ever experience the miseries of depression.

"During the depression Frankston was as dead as Julius Caesar," he said.

STUDENTS HEAR HOW HOSPITAL OPERATES

On Wednesday, June 23, Dr. Galbraith, a noted child specialist from the Orthopaedic Hospital, visited the Frankston Teachers' College to explain about the hospital and its duties.

He mentioned the importance of the psychological effect of the hospital on its patients, whom they regard from infancy to 10 years.

He said having patients will not feel strange or left out but are shown more the hospital by other patients of their own age. The parents of the children and doctor would be glad to see the hospital with some to provide the link between them at the end of the school, the child's home being deserted.

Special lectures are provided for the administration of nurses who work in the hospital. Students are also encouraged to start at the hospital in particular to see for the first time when they are discharged from the hospital.

Dr. Galbraith explained that before operations are performed are given a drug which makes the child asleep. After this, he is given an anaesthetic. When the operation is over, there are no anaesthetic machines and the child is left with no trace of anything operation.

By the way when operations, there is a particular point where to hold the wrist and hand. Parents are made the special history of children who are in hospital. Being here the better, the patients are made comfortable.

According to a special list of questions administered to Dr. Galbraith, explained that it means a hospital visit.

Dr. Galbraith visited the College to go to the hospital for his hospital visit. He said his visit was intended to encourage.

LECTURE ON BOOKS AND LIBRARIES

Students of the Frankston Teachers' College were privileged to have as their guest speaker last week Mr. Feeley of the Public Library of Victoria—the occasion being Library Week.

The interest of students was noticeably aroused when Mr. Feeley related his library and teachers have been much in common—both dealing with books.

The speaker mentioned it took weeks to see a copy on the ground before a very small percentage of the population actually use the library.

Many people think of a library when a collection of books is kept or where a secret world like Tolkien's "The Hobbit" is hidden.

Mr. Feeley advised to a library is a cup with the water in the glass, but the water in the glass is the water in the glass.

He said that books will be used as long as there are people to read them.

The book of value had very little effect on the quality of books as people could take and read at the same time, but in those days of V. V. it was hard to find a book and with the television of the new era, the habit of reading was fast fading.

The speaker was of the opinion that if the habit of reading was fast fading, it was not of their business that the State of Victoria will do with them.

ADVENTURE CAMPS DESCRIBED TO STUDENTS

The assembly of staff and students of Frankston Teachers' College last Thursday was addressed by Mr. Hinchborne, of the National Fitness Council of Victoria.

The talk was well-illustrated by slides taken at one of the "Adventure" training camps at Wilson's Promontory. At that particular camp there were 25 boys present, aged 15-17 years. They were required to live self-sufficiently, hunt, digests items during their stay there.

Living time was at 8 a.m. (actually 8 a.m.), because of the daylight-saving system after which followed swimming, golfing, climbing, then basketball.

Throughout the day, lots of examples of mental and physical exercises were held, being which some of the best designed exercises. Examples of exercises were brought out in their work.

The boys were required to cook their own food and their parents themselves with certain 30 days.

These camps were held in the winter of 1957-58, the purpose of the camps was to give the children a psychological test.

He fully explained the nature of the camps and the nature of the camps was to give the children a psychological test.

He fully explained the nature of the camps and the nature of the camps was to give the children a psychological test.

At the school program, the boys were given the opportunity of members of the staff and questions of leadership and initiative were recognized and rewarded.

Mr. Hinchborne concluded by saying that although the camp was last week, all the boys agreed that it was very "great".

STUDENTS' LECTURE ON FITNESS WORK

Mr. Hinchborne of the National Fitness Council visited the Frankston Teachers' College on Thursday, June 10, to show films and lecture upon the council's work.

He told the college that the council is working upon an English theory in establishing "Adventure Schools" at various holiday resorts in Victoria.

The boys were at 8 a.m. took an early morning swim, the main point of their preparation.

The highlight of the conference was the lecture upon fitness, however, we are sorry to report that Frankston Teachers' College was not very successful in any of these.

The film on "Adventure Schools" training were all awarded by the National Fitness Council, which was made by them with background music from the film.

STUDENTS HEAR HOW HOSPITAL OPERATES

On Wednesday, June 24, Dr. Galbraith, a noted child specialist from the Orthopaedic Hospital, visited the Frankston Teachers' College to explain about the hospital and its duties.

He emphasized the importance of the psychological effect of the hospital on its inmates, whose ages range from infancy to 17 years.

So that young patients will not feel strange or left out they are shown over the hospital by other patients of their own age. The parents of the children are encouraged to go to the hospital with them to preserve the link between them and to avoid the feeling of the child's being deserted.

Special quarters are provided for the accommodation of parents who wish to stay overnight. Sometimes parents are requested to stay at the hospital to learn how to care for the children after they are dismissed from the hospital.

Dr. Galbraith explained that before operations, the children are given a drug which makes the patient drowsy. After this, he is given an anaesthetic. When the operation is over there are no unpleasant memories and the child is left with no fear of another operation.

To help with other treatment, there is a swimming pool which is filled with sea water and heated. Provision is made for special training of children who are too badly crippled. Being near the beach, the patients are easily transported there.

Answering a question on the meaning of orthopaedic, Dr. Galbraith explained that it meant a "straight child."

Dr. Galbraith invited the College to go to the hospital for an inspection one day. His talk, and slides were enjoyed by everyone.

LECTURE ON BOOKS AND LIBRARIES

Students of the Frankston Teachers' College were privileged to have as their guest speaker last week Mr. Feeley of the Public Library of Victoria—the occasion being Library Week.

The interest of students was immediately captured when Mr. Feeley referred to libraries and teachers having much in common — both dealing with human material.

The speaker wondered if book weeks make any impression on the general public as a very small percentage of the population actually use the libraries.

Many people think of them as places where a collection of books is kept or where a sneeze sounds like Gabriel's trumpet.

Mr. Feeley referred to a library as a car with the customer as the driver, the librarian as the starter motor and the books as the machinery or the engine.

He said that books will be read as long as there are people to read them.

The birth of radio had very little effect on the reading of books as people could listen and read at the same time, but in these days of T.V. it is very hard to read a book and watch the Television at the same time. But the habit of wide reading must come back.

The speaker was of the opinion that if the habit of reading dies then libraries will die and if that happens then the State of Victoria will die with them.

ADVENTURE CAMPS DESCRIBED TO STUDENTS

The assembly of staff and students at Frankston Teachers' College last Thursday was addressed by Mr. Henthorne, of the National Fitness Council of Victoria.

His talk was well-illustrated by slides taken at one of the "Adventure" training camps at Wilson's Promontory. At that particular camp there were 25 boys present (aged 15-17 years). They were required to live self-disciplined, hard, vigorous lives during their stay there.

Rising time was at 6 a.m. (actually 4 a.m., because of the daylight-saving system) after which followed swimming, athletics, climbing, then breakfast.

Throughout the day, tests of courage, of mental and physical resources were held, from which most of the boys emerged successful. Qualities of leadership were brought out in these tests.

The boys were required to cook their own food and often provide themselves with shelter at night.

These camps were established to give an outlet to youths' craving for adventure as a psychological need.

His talk captivated the college students and many of them are looking forward to seeing him at a Tidal River camp later in the year.

STUDENTS' LECTURE ON FITNESS WORK

Mr. Henthorne of the National Fitness Council visited the Frankston Teachers' College on Thursday, June 18, to show films and lecture upon the council's work.

He told the college that the council is working upon an English theory in establishing "Adventure Schools" at various holiday resorts in Victoria.

The boys arose at 4 a.m., took an early morning swim, ten minutes physical education, and then an hour's athletics before breakfast.

After breakfast (which was cooked by the boys themselves), they passed through different initiative tests. These included dangerous rock climbing, bush rescues, erecting tents blindfolded and other equally difficult tasks. All of these tests were designed as character training and brought out the best and poorer qualities in the boys.

As the school progressed, each boy was closely observed by members of the staff and qualities of leadership and initiative were recognized and recorded.

Mr. Henthorne concluded by saying that although the camp was hard work, all the boys agreed that it had been "beaut fun."

and the rapid devouring of frankfurts, soups, etc., was ample proof of their appreciation.

The highlight of the visit arrived when the matches began; however, we are sorry to report that Frankston Teachers' College was not very successful in any of these.

The tired but triumphant Ballarat students were all escorted to the Peninsula Squash Courts, where tea was ready for them with background music from the latest records.

We would like to say how much we enjoyed the visit from the Ballarat Teachers' College and wish to congratulate them on their success in the matches conducted. — FAYE KNIGHT.

STUDENT TEACHERS AT SWIMMING SPORTS

Students of Frankston Teachers' Training College had their first official outing when they attended the combined teachers' training college swimming sports held at the Melbourne Olympic Stadium, April 1.

With other students they were welcomed to the Principal of Frankston Training College, also which the meeting was officially opened by Mr. Phillips, Chief Inspector of Primary Schools.

Good natural swimmers were the order of the afternoon, and the pool was with the cheer and was one of the main groups, led by Arthur, former national champion.

There were two divisions in the water, the large college Melbourne, Frankston and Frankston in one and Frankston, Geelong, Frankston and Colac in the other. Frankston's best was in the 100 yards, open meeting, which they gained first place in their division.

Other good performances were J. Fisher, 2nd in men's 100 yards, 2nd in men's 200 yards, 2nd in men's 500 yards, 2nd in women's 100 yards, 2nd in women's 200 yards.

There were also special in the 100 yards, 200 yards, 500 yards, 1000 yards and 1500 yards in men's and women's and men's and women's 1000 yards.

Teachers' College Swimming Carnival

Last Wednesday, members of the Frankston Teachers' College attended their first official outing. The occasion was the combined Teachers' College swimming carnival at the Melbourne Olympic Pool.

The president of Frankston Teachers' College, the host college, welcomed all the other colleges to the sports and then handed over to Mr. Phillips, chief inspector of primary schools, who officially opened the carnival.

Good natural swimmers were the order of the day as the pool echoed to the cheers and war cries of the college groups, led by gallant swimmers.

The best event of the day was the men's open meeting, in which Frankston gained first place in the division. J. Fisher, second place in the men's 100 yards, 2nd in men's 200 yards, 2nd in men's 500 yards, and E. Vale third in the men's 1000 yards, were three of the outstanding swimmers of the afternoon.

STUDENT TEACHERS AT SWIMMING SPORTS

Students of Frankston Teachers' Training College had their first official outing when they attended the combined teachers' training college swimming sports held at the Melbourne Olympic on Wednesday, April 1.

With other students, they were welcomed by the Principal of Toorak Training College, after which the carnival was officially opened by Mr. Phillips, Chief Inspector of Primary Schools.

Good-natured rivalry was the order of the afternoon, and the pool rang with the cheers and war cries of the college groups, led by fantastically dressed cheer leaders.

There were two divisions in the sports, the large colleges Melbourne, Toorak and Burwood in one and Bendigo, Ballarat, Geelong, Frankston and Coburg in the other

Frankston's best race for the day was the men's open medley relay in which they gained 1st place in their division.

Other good performances were: J. Fisher, 2nd in men's 50 metre breaststroke; W. Barclay, 2nd in men's 200 metre freestyle; Beverley Vale 3rd in women's 50 metre freestyle.

Places were also gained in the 100 metre freestyle, 50 metre backstroke and butterfly events, and men's and women's relays.

Bullard Teachers' College Visit

The students of Franklin Teachers College prepared a guide welcome for their visitors from Bullard Teachers' College when the students, by invitation, the faculty and of Bullard High "arrived" at the first part of the visit. They were met at the entrance by a group of cheerleaders and a group of students who had prepared a guide for the visitors. The students of Bullard Teachers' College were meeting the visitors.

Each was waiting for the visitors at the "old home"

NEWS FROM BULLARDETS

The Students of the Bullard Teachers' College prepared a guide welcome for their visitors from Bullard Teachers' College when the students, by invitation, the faculty and of Bullard High "arrived" at the first part of the visit. They were met at the entrance by a group of cheerleaders and a group of students who had prepared a guide for the visitors. The students of Bullard Teachers' College were meeting the visitors.

After luncheon, the various groups prepared to the spirit's parade which was held in the gymnasium. The parade was held in the gymnasium and was a very successful one. The students of Bullard Teachers' College were meeting the visitors.

HAYSEED HOP

A "hop" for "hayseed" students was held at the Social Service Club of the Teachers College last Friday night. Among the "hayseed" students were Lela Lynn, Lela and Helen, and several students.

The party was very enjoyable. The students who came to their "home" "Lela" and "Helen" were surprised when a very unusual of the college descended upon them. From them for each class in wearing red under the same color, the formal city dance and were for looking together.

A special dance, called by the name of the staff, was given a highlight.

Music was provided by a group called "The Night Owls" who helped organize the evening with their own efforts.

During the evening drinks and refreshments were served. The evening was very successful for a Social Service and for the "hayseed" students.

Ballarat Teachers' College Visit

The students of Frankston Teachers' College prepared a gala welcome for their visitors from Ballarat Teachers' College. After this welcome, in which the head boy of Ballarat was "sacrificed" to the Sun God, the visitors were taken on a tour of the college. They showed a great appreciation for the scenery around the fine old building in which the students of Frankston College are residing temporarily.

Lunch was waiting for the visitors in the "Art Room"

VISIT FROM BALLARAT

On Thursday, June 18, Ballarat Teachers' College visited the Frankston Teachers' College to take part in various sports. They left Ballarat early in the morning and arrived at Frankston about 11.30 a.m.

Frankston Teachers' College had prepared a warm welcome for them, a feature of which was the "sacrifice" of the President of Ballarat S.R.C. to the Sun god. During the break between the welcome and luncheon, which was provided by the social committee, parties of students were shown over the college. Many of them commented on the smallness of the present college, but were impressed when shown the plan of the future one.

After luncheon, the various groups proceeded to the sports grounds where many keenly - contested games were played. Ballarat proved their sporting strength by being victorious in all but tennis.

Afternoon tea was served in the squash courts at Frankston.

HAYSEED HOP

A "hop" for "seedy" characters was held by the Social Service Club at the Teachers' College last Friday night. Among the "seedy characters" were Hoby Gilman, Dave and Mabel, and several cowhands.

The young men from outside the college who came in their "dacs", "D.B.'s" and "sloppy joes" were surprised when a tiny student of the college demanded penny fines from them for such crimes as wearing two socks the same color, for formal city dress and even for looking unhappy.

A square dance, called by one of the staff, was quite a highlight.

Music was provided by a group called "The Night Owls," who helped brighten the evening with their gay rhythm.

During the evening drinks and carrots were on sale. Prizes (large carrots) were awarded for a Monte Carlo and for the "seediest" character.

To God eternal the heav'ns utter glory,
From them His name afar is heard.
By earth and sea is repeated the story,
Let all mankind receive their word,
Who holds the numberless stars in their places?
Who bids the sun His light diffuse?
He comes with brightness and smiles in our faces,
And hero-like His way pursues.

Christmas Greetings

The waxing sun gives light and warmth and life;
In greeting, St. Boniface's tree sprouts green,
The Child of Light calls forth the sages Three;
To share the fire of life we follow
The Cross, past death into eternity.
