Teachers' College Opens with a "Rag"

A lot of nonsense and a practical joke opened the start of the 1960
academic year at the Freshman Teachers' College yesterday morning in the absence of the Principal. The absence of the "skipper" could have been deliberate!

The session started with a "rag" and consisted of Bill Martin, a student, in the name of sarcasm.

Bill opened with a beginning of "sarcasm" and then proceeded to discuss the college in the absence of a title applying to the text.

He emphasized the importance of sarcasm in the student part of the text and then proceeded to discuss the text in the name of "Jim Baker," a name of the college, who had been killed in a motor accident last weekend.

A similar "rag" repeated itself into the trap.

After the students got up from the desks and went back to the
"Jim Baker" and sarcasm, the principal could not recall the names and how sarcasm was the text.

He questioned several students about sarcasm and went to the
"Jim Baker" and sarcasm and how sarcasm was the
text.

While he found out that a "rag" was the text, he found out that the text was the text and sarcasm was the
text.

On the way out of the session he found out that sarcasm was the
text.

During the session the text of the text was the text and sarcasm was the text.

There are several reasons for the absence of the Principal. The text of the text is the text.

Teachers' College Opens with a "Rag"

A lot of nonsense and a practical joke or two preceded the start of the 1960 academic year at the Frankston Teachers' College yesterday morning in the absence of the Principal. The absence of the "skipper" could have been deliberate!

The nonsense started with a "pep" and camaradie talk by Bill Martin, a student, for the benefit of newcomers.

Bill gravely talked about the beginning of "vegetable week," when all students had to concentrate on some sort of tomato, cabbage or fruit. His discourse was a trifle confusing, to say the least.

He emphasised the importance of vegetables to the student way of life, and then called for two minutes' silence in memory of "Jim Blake," a master at the college, who had been killed in a motor accident last week-end.

A gullible "Post" reporter fell into the trap.

After the students got up from the lawn and bowed their heads in sad memory of "Jim Blake," our reporter scratched his head because he could not recall the police having told him anything about this tragic event.

He questioned several masters about details and sought an authentic record of "Jim Blake's" academic career and family history.

Was he a bachelor, and so forth?

When he found out he was a victim of a "practical," he plucked the ignition keys from his pocket and vanished from the scene of so much hilarity.

On the way out of the grounds he saw misdirection posts everywhere.

Getting on to the serious side of the development of the new college—the administrative wing, lecture rooms and physical training sections are nearing completion—the Frankston Teachers' College will bear comparison with any in the State.

There are blue-prints for hostels for the accommodation of "residential," but work on them has not yet started.

The buildings already erected cost £200,000, and the estimated cost of the hostel is £180,000.

The ultimate goal is the accommodation of 500 students, 120 of whom will be residential.

Mr. W. Euson is the progressive and dynamic Principal.

This year the college admitted 160 new students. There are 270 students on the roll, and they come from Dandenong, Mentone, Gippsland, the Southern Mornington Peninsula and other adjacent districts.

Dear Karwick,

Please accept my good wishes for a successful year during 1960. We, at Toorak, would like to convey to you and your staff fraternal greetings as you embark on your work for this new year.

And when you meet your students at your first assembly, I would be glad if you would assure them of Toorak's interest in their plans for 1960 and of our hope that they will have a very happy and satisfying year.

I hope that your move into your new buildings will not be delayed and that you will soon have the pleasure of working under vastly improved conditions.

We have notified our V.I.T.O. course and have incorporated the new subject "Social Health" in the third year. You may be interested in the copy which I have enclosed.

You will also find enclosed a sheet I am circulating to members of staff. It contains some opinions which, I think, may provoke some discussion and help us to check up on our own ideas about our task. I shall run off some additional copies if you are interested in using them yourself.

Kindest regards,

Yours sincerely,

Teachers' College doubles enrolment

The administrative and physical education blocks are now ready for occupation. The latter contains a staff association, large gymnasium and assembly hall.

It is expected that the building of the house for 120 students will be completed this year.

The staff, numbering 24, is drawn from other teachers' colleges and from secondary and primary schools.

It is confidently anticipated that the college will be incorporated into the communal life of Frankston and the surrounding districts and that, in due course, it will become a decided asset to the district. Its early inclusion in the development and progress of the college, an association of parents and citizens has been formed to be called the Frankston Teachers' College Builders Association. The first general meeting, at which a constitution will be adopted and a steering committee will be held at the college on Friday, February 26, at 8 pm.

Attendance at the meeting is open not only to parents of students but also to all interested persons.

The Foundation and Building Committees have appointed the following representatives: Mr. Gorman and Mr. Hill, and representatives of other organizations will be warmly welcomed.

Teachers' College doubles enrolment

With an intake of 150 new students, the Frankston Teachers' College has more than doubled in size, total enrolment in its second year being 360. These include teachers are drawn from the Murrumbidgee Peninsula, from Coonambie along the Dandenong and Frankston railway lines, and from Gippsland.

By next year this number will grow to 400. These students will be drawn from an area comprising the Murrumbidgee Peninsula, West Gippsland, and as far as Dandenong and Dorrigh in the suburbs.

Students will undertake the following courses: "Trainee primary teacher's certificate (two years), trained infant teacher's certificate (three years).

Thirty-one students are undertaking the latter course.

Building operations are proceeding rapidly, but soon when the buildings are completed there will be more to be done in the way of development work, which will inevitably fall on the shoulders of voluntary workers.

Five buildings are already occupied. The lecture block has been in use since the beginning of the year. The extensive library, science rooms, art and craft, and general lecture rooms.

Student teacher Judith Martin, of Frankston, arrive Gellert, from Trent's studios. Judith is one of the models who will take part in the fashion parade organized by the Frankston Teachers' College Welfare Association, and to be held at the College, Frankston, on Wednesday, October 26, at 8 p. m.

"GOWN OF THE YEAR" ENTRIES TO BE SEEN IN FRANKSTON

Organizers of the semi-annual parade to be held at the Frankston Teachers' College tonight (Monday), were feeling so sure that their two professional seamstresses are to wear the gowns which they wore to the Legation Child's "Gown of the Year" at the weekend.

This is in addition to the wonderful range of fashions obtained by Gellert, especially for the parade. Tickets have been putting extremely well, but more will be obtainable at the door. Tickets have not been required so parties are advised to come early. A study guide programme with a television feature, is promised.

Mannequins at Teachers' College

Recent interest in what are people thinking of their summer wardrobes and what their pleasure may be derived from watching the "latest" than by watching a mannequin parade of these fashions?

On the evening of October 26, the inauguration of the new Teachers' College at the corner of Macleay's and Hastings-streets, Frankston, will be the setting for such a parade which is being organized by the Welfare Association of the college in cooperation with Gellert's Dress Studio.

The costume is very limited with the majority and professional seamstress whose articles have been obtained, but all of these are prepared for the semi-annual "Gown of the Year" and "Skirt of the Year" competitions to be held soon. They are Mrs. Green, who has travelled for this in Paris and Martin's Street, with Ann McDonald as the designer.

In addition, five of the college students will be modeling as mannequins. They are Miss McIlroy and Judy Murray from Frankston, Diane May of Moorabbin, Jenny Gordon and Loretta Young of Berwick, Miss Will, Victoria's and Miss Cook. The garments to be shown will include a variety from their, sports-wear and evening wear from New York and the latter's Paradise, as well as those of leading Melbourne manufacturers.

Tickets may be obtained from the College (100), Mrs. Blair, the ladies secretary (120) or Wiggins' Miss Sue, Chatterton st., Frankston.

Student teacher Judith Morris, of Frankston, astride Gallant, from Trent's stables. Judith is one of the models who will take part in the fashion parade organised by the Frankston Teachers' College Welfare Association, and to be held at the College, Frankston, on Wednesday, October 26, at 8 p.m.

"GOWN OF THE YEAR" ENTRIES TO BE SEEN IN FRANKSTON

Organisers of the mannequin parade to be held at the Frankston Teachers' College tonight (Wednesday), were thrilled to learn that their two professional mannequins are to wear the gowns which they wore in the Legacy Club's "Gown of the Year" at the week-end.

This is in addition to the wonderful range of fashions obtained by Galants especially for the parade. Tickets have been selling extremely well, but more will be obtainable at the door. Tables have not been reserved, so patrons are advised to come early. A really good programme with a delicious supper, is promised.

Mannequins at Teachers' College

Recent summer weather has set people thinking of their summer wardrobes and what more pleasant way could there be of seeing the "latest" than by watching a mannequin parade of these fashions?

On the evening of October 26, the auditorium of the new Teachers' College at the corner of McMahons and Hastings-rds., Frankston, will be the setting for such a parade which is being organised by the Welfare Association of the college in conjunction with Gallant's Frock Salon.

The committee is very thrilled with the compere and professional mannequins whose services have been obtained, for all of them are engaged for the well-known "Gown of the Year" and "Model of the Year" competition to be held soon. They are Joan Green, who has modelled for Dior in Paris and Marilyn Barr, with Joan McDonald as the compere.

In addition, five of the college students will be assisting as mannequins. They are Helen McLardy and Judy Morris from Frankston, Diane Haig of Moorabbin, Jenny Gaudom and Loretta Young of Bentleigh. Mr. Wall of Gallant's said this week that the garments to be shown will include knitwear from Italy, sportswear and casual wear from New York and Surfer's Paradise, as well as from all leading Melbourne manufacturers.

Tickets may be obtained from the College (3.2393), Mrs. Hart, the ticket secretary (3.3926) or Wright's Milk Bar, Charman-rd., Cheltenham.

TEACHING STUDENTS SAY FAREWELL TO DIRECTOR

More than 250 students packed the assembly hall of the Froelich Teachers' College on Wednesday, March 9, to pay a farewell tribute to the Director of Education, Mr. A. Ramsey.

Mr. Ramsey is retiring this week after 40 years with the department. He has been Director of Education for the past 11 years.

The principal of the teachers' college, Mr. W. J. Jensen, said he felt that the college owed a great deal of its existence to Mr. Ramsey's leadership and vision.

Teachers' colleges had increased from three to 22 and the number of students from 2500 to 5000.

He said that Mr. Ramsey had told him to regard the establishment of the Froelich college as the fulfillment of a plan he had formulated years ago.

In reply, Mr. Ramsey told the students that there was the toughest work, so they had to go out into the classrooms, to mould the minds and character of the younger generation.

Miss Marymary Day, president of the student council, presented him with a letter and staff letter bearing the college badge.

Miss Marymary Day, of the Student Council of the Teachers' College Froelich, makes a presentation to the retiring Director of Education, Major General A. Ramsey, when he said his last official visit to the college last Wednesday. With them is Mr. Jensen, Principal of the college.

CEASE FIRE TALKS IMMINENT

Surely some preventive measure can be placed upon the barrage of tests, "little" exercises and assignments being catapulted at the students by a merciless staff.

Even dogs have a protective society. But who cares about the poor downtrodden under-privileged student who, in addition to staggering under his term ll burden, has to save money for his September vacation and is forced to savagely prune his nights out per week to five.

'Is this Justice?
Is there no Respite?

Seriously though, Staff. Is there among you some group that periodically surveys the volume of work which students are asked to do? Is there too much work? If not, can it be arranged better? Think, Act! If we cannot avoid, at least give us time to earn our red "E's".

The Survival of the Fittest:

The Horse and Cow live 30 years
And nothing knows of Wine or beers;
The Goat and Sheep at 20 die
And never taste of Scotch or Rye;
A Sow drinks water by the ton
At 18 she is nearly done;
The dog at 15 cashes in Without the aid of Rum or Gin;
The cat in milk and water soaks
In all of 12 short years it croaks;
The modest, sober, bone dry hen
Lays eggs for years and dies at 10
They sinless live and sinless die;
But sinful, ginful, rum soaked men

Survive for three score years and ten
And some of us - the mighty few,
Stay pickled till we're 92.

The Unionist's Commandments.

1. Like a sheep shall I follow - the Union can do no wrong. I shall not question it.
2. I am not compelled to join the Union - if I don't I am a scab with no rights and as such will be persecuted. The Union is right.
3. If the government gives me anything, it did not - 'twas the Union. The Union shall not be left.
4. Although my immediate leaders are steeped in certain politics and boast it, we are non-political. Could the Union be left? No!
5. The Union is non-religious. Such groups are cast out to wither. The Union is all embracing.
6. Yea! My dues disappear, nothing is forthcoming. I have faith. The Union is wise.
7. Although the government gives me everything, I shall want more. I am not an agitator. The Union cannot be left.
8. Yea verily! The Union may be antiquated 30 years, but sheep-like shall I follow. The Union is good.
9. Although we insist we are a professional group we are proud of the name Union with all the industrious, righteous aromas which surround it. The Union cannot be left.

"Who teaches, learns".

Many variations were also almost considered.

"Who leans, teaches"

"Aspire to humility with ... One spoon

"More loudspeakers for Mao"

"Who teaches teacher?"

and then the genius of them all comes up with

"Go the old Knuckle".

From Geelong Teachers':-A Teacher's Fate.

The teacher stood at the Pearly Gates,
Her face was worn and old;
She stood before the man of fate
For admission to the fold.

"What have you done?" St. Peter said,
"To gain admission here?"
"I've been a teacher, sir," she said
"For many and many a year."

The Pearly Gates swung open wide, St. Peter touched the bell,

THE PLAINT OF THE STUDENT.

With apologies to Charles Edward Carryl's poem "Plaint of a Camel" p.75, Grade V Reader.

Lecturers feed on sugar and seed
Teachers have crackers to crunch
As for the D.I.'s, they'll tell otherwise,
Who have chicken and cream for their lunch.
But there's never a question
About my indigestion,
Canteen food does for me.

Heads, you're aware, can repose on a chair.
I.S.M.'s can roost on their tails.
Students are labelled to sleep in a stable
While lecturers slumber in veils.

And no-one supposes
Where a poor student dozes
A lecture-room does for him.

Itseeces are enclosed where it's never expose
But coops are constructed for men's,
Professionals are treated to houses well heat
And I.S.M.'s are protected by pens
But a male comes in handy
Wherever it's sandy
The Mallee does for thee.

People do laugh if we blow the wood reed
If we don't cut out dolls we get floored.
It's our forced habit to "mount it and tab it"
In effort to keep above board.

The Perfect Squelch

Mrs. Breeze, the neighborhood chatterbox, could outdo any radio or television in volume and persistence. Whenever she paid a visit, her words preceded her through the door and flooded
the house. Dropping in on a young mother nearby, she talked one evening from seven p.m. until far into the night with scarcely a pause for breath.
In vain the young woman tried to cut her off.

As the night wore on, Mrs. Breeze noticed that her captive audience was nodding sleepily and snapped, "Perhaps I am keeping you awake?"

"Oh, that's all right," said the young mother. "I'd have to get up pretty soon anyhow."

Clarence Roeser.

SPORT

FRANKSTON TEACHERS' COLLEGE

During the past month the college has participated in a series of sporting events with Melbourne, Morwell, Frankston and Geelong Teachers' Colleges. In tennis and, especially, in lawn bowls the girls' team proved the best. These students were joined last Wednesday, although defeated by Melbourne at Morley, Frankston was able to secure victory for the second year running.

With only two weeks of the term left, most of the students are looking forward to the vacation days. Plans for students will be going to Brighton Beach, the Great Ocean Road, Australia, and a camp at Wandsworth. About 200 students will be going on these tours, which have received permission from the students and a special deal of remuneration by the College. Richard Strahan (the principal), who is in charge of arrangements.

Last Wednesday the newly constructed sand bath villa, which was officially opened by the principal, Mr. H. Strahan, who kind the first shot. The villa is a tribute to the interest and industry of a small group of boys who gave generously and freely of their time to build it.

A demonstration is being given in the schoolroom at the culture centre, where the Public Works Department is planning and building a new bar and sports oval. A great deal of work has been done and at the present time of progress it will not be long before the college has an oval of which it can be proud. Care is being taken to procure as much as possible of the natural building material.

A further invitation is given to all members of the public to visit the culture and Workshop at present and viewing them it will be open for inspection as part of Education Week.

CHEAP GOLF FOR STUDENTS?

Frankston Teachers' College has written to the Frankston and Hastings Shire stating that the golfing students of the college are anxious to obtain a reduction in green fees on the surrounding golf links.

The college pointed out that many students have taken up golf on Wednesday afternoon when they are accompanied by a teacher and play on a group. The letter also said it was understood that suburban school pupils pay only 1/6 for a round of golf and therefore hoped that the college students will receive similar consideration.

The letter was referred to some standing committee.

TEACHERS' COLLEGE

During the past months the college has participated in a series of sporting contests with Melbourne, Burwood, Toorak and Coburg Teachers' Colleges. In hockey and squash the teams reached the finals. These matches were played last Wednesday. Although defeated by Melbourne at Hockey, Frankston was able to defeat Coburg for the squash premiership.

With only two weeks of the term left, most of the students are looking forward to the vacation tours. Parties of students will be going to Magnetic Island, the Gold Coast, Central Australia, and a camp at Wandiligong. About 150 students will be going on these tours, which have involved strenuous saving by the students and a great deal of organisation by the College Social Studies Department, which is in charge of arrangements.

Last Wednesday the newly constructed small bore rifle range was officially opened by the principal, Mr. W. Eunson, who fired the first shot. The range is a tribute to the interest and industry of a small group of men who gave generously and freely of their time to build it.

A transformation is taking place in the north-east corner of the college grounds, where the Public Works Department is clearing and levelling an area for a sports oval. A great deal of work has been done and at the present rate of progress it will not be long before the college has an oval of which it can be proud. Care is being taken to preserve as much as possible of the natural bushland setting.

A further invitation is given to all members of the public to visit the college next Wednesday afternoon and evening when it will be open for inspection as part of Education Week.

CHEAP GOLF FOR STUDENTS?

Frankston Teachers' College has written to the Frankston and Hastings Shire stating that the golfing students of the college are anxious to obtain a reduction of green fees on the municipal golf links.

The college pointed out that many students have taken up golf on Wednesday afternoons when they are accompanied by a lecturer and play as a group. The letter also said it was understood that technical school pupils pay only 1/6 for a round of golf and therefore hoped that the college students will receive similar consideration.

The letter was referred to town planning committee.

Shire President Cr. A. Gowans stops to chat with Anne Murphy (F'ston), Brenda Dowey (Hastings) and Marie Mithen (Ormond) of the Teachers' College, Frankston, at the Hastings Baths; one of points of interest visited by the Frankston and Hastings Shire Councillors during their 84-mile trip of beating-the-bounds of the Shire.
