TUTORSHIPS IN THE HALLS OF RESIDENCE

Deakin Hall and Howitt Hall have positions available, in 1967, for a certain number of Hall Tutors. These people do not undertake any formal teaching responsibilities in the Halls, but are expected to give whatever assistance they can to individual students who might seek it from them. They are also expected to accept some minor administrative duties. A more extended statement of the responsibilities attaching to these positions and of the role of the Hall Tutors within the Hall community is set out in a document available from Mrs. Betty Polglaze, Dr. McDonnell's secretary.

It should be realized that Tutors are selected on the basis of their probable value to the Hall community, not on the basis of their needs for convenient accommodation.

At present, it seems that there will be a particular need, during the coming year, for women Tutors. Any single women - members of staff or research students - who are interested, if only vaguely, in living in one of the Halls are cordially invited to get in touch with one of the two Wardens, (Dr. J.A. McDonnell or Mrs. B.L. Cumming) to discuss the matter.

STAFF DRAMA GROUP

The next monthly play-reading of the Staff Drama Group will be at 8 p.m. on Monday 7th November, at the home of Ian and Marie Donald, 50 Albert Street, Mount Waverley. For the first time in the play-reading series the play to be read will be one written by a member of staff at Monash and not yet performed; it is to be "Much Ado", by William Wood, member of the French Section, and author of "Actone", which was performed in the Union Hall this year. A further departure from precedent is that part of the play will have been rehearsed beforehand. The author will be present to lead a discussion of the play after it has been read.

It is anticipated that the annual general meeting and end-of-year party of the group will be held on Monday, 5th December. Confirmation of this date, and details of arrangements, will be available from the Secretary, Barbara Calton (Department of English, extension 2140) after 2nd November.

STUDENT ACCOMMODATION

The Student Housing Office is anxious to hear from any member of staff living near Monash, or in areas easily accessible by public transport, who is able to offer accommodation to a student in 1967, or who is able to interest other people in doing so.

Further information may be obtained from the Student Housing Office - extensions 2092 and 2107.

ALEXANDER THEATRE

It is expected that the Alexander Theatre will be completed by the end of 1966 and will be available during the 1967 sessions for public lectures, concerts, plays, film screenings, conferences, and other University functions.

It would be of great assistance to the Theatre Committee if intending users could lodge tentative bookings for 1967 with Miss Pauline Cross, Assistant to the Warden of the Union, before 1st December.

The seating capacity of the theatre will be 508 fixed seats with additional seating of up to 200. It is hoped to publish an account of the various seating arrangements and the uses and equipment of the theatre in the next issue of the Reporter. In the meantime further information is available from Mr. D. Bradley, Room 816 Humanities Building, extension 2131.

STAFF HOUSING

From time to time the Student Housing Office is offered flats or houses which seem more suitable for staff than student use.

Details of such offers will be displayed on the notice board in the Faculty Club as they come to hand.

NATIONAL LIBRARY

A letter has been received from the National Library of Australia notifying the University of the Australian collections maintained and services provided by the National Library in London and New York.

The services are located at Australia House, The Strand, London, W.C. 2, where the liaison officer is Mr. F.W. Torrington, B.A., F.L.A., and at 636 Fifth Avenue, New York, 20, where the liaison officer is Miss Dulcie Penfold, B.Ec.

The primary purpose of the National Library's representation abroad is to assist the development of its collections at home. An important aspect of this, in which the Library has received much help from visiting scholars, is the location of major existing collections which might be acquired, especially in the social sciences and the humanities. Such collections, usually of more highly specialized and less used material, help to supplement in an important way the resources of other Australian libraries, through inter-library loan.

COURSE IN "IMMUNOLOGY" BY DEPARTMENT OF PATHOLOGY

In the first 1967 term of Science Faculty, the Department of Pathology will offer a short course in "Immunology" consisting of nine lectures held every Wednesday, 11 a.m. to 12 noon (March 15th to May 10th) at Monash Campus, and at the end of the term, during the first week of vacation (May 22nd to 26th), a concentrated laboratory course with workshop and practical demonstrations. The course will introduce basic principles and methods, and provide theoretical and technical background for more advanced studies of Immunobiology.

The lectures are designed to stand by themselves; there is no limit to the number that may attend. The laboratory sessions will be held at the Pathology Department, Monash Medical School, Alfred Hospital, where the maximum number of participants must be restricted to fifteen.

The course is open to Honors and postgraduate students. There are no prerequisites except for a recommendation from the Chairman of Department in which the student is working. A few laboratory places may be made available to University Staff with adequate knowledge of Immunology, but who may not have attended the lectures. Students or staff interested in participating should write to Professor R.C. Nairn through the Chairman of the Department in which they are working.

THEATRE BOOKING AGENCY

The Union is now operating for your convenience a Theatre Booking Agency, which is located in the Dry-cleaning shop and under the care of Mrs. T. Douglas, extension 2923. DEPARTMENTAL NEWS OF GENERAL INTEREST

CHEMISTRY

Professor J.M. Swan has been elected president of the Monash Chemical Society for 1967. During 1966 the programme included: eight lectures by members of the Monash Chemistry Department, three lectures by members of C.S.I.R.O. Divisions, five lectures by interstate speakers, seven lectures by international speakers.

CLASSICAL STUDIES

During October Professor Rankin visited the Department of Classical Studies at the Australian National University where he delivered two lectures, one on "Is Plato's Republic a Fantasy" and the other "Some Recent Critics of the Republic", to the Greek Civilization class. He also addressed the Classical Association of Canberra on the topic "Petronius and Three Moderns".

Professor Spyridon Marinatos, the distinguished Greek prehistorian and archaeologist visited Monash during September. Professor Marinatos, who has been one of the leading excavators of Minoan and Mycenaean sites, was the initiator during the 1930's of the theory, now widely accepted, that Crete civilization was destroyed by the effects of a massive volcano on the neighbouring island of Thera. Professor Marinatos gave a most comprehensive lecture upon this subject to the students. He also discovered the battlefield of Thermopylae. In 1960 he unearthed at the site of Peristeria, a large palace which is now considered to be possibly the major Mycenaean site of the western coast of Greece. Professor Marinatos also lectured upon this topic.

During the year Mr. Peter Bicknell initiated a special seminar in Ancient History, addressed by members of the Department, and by visiting and invited scholars. In recent seminars Mr. Culican of the History Department of Melbourne University delivered a lecture upon the Phoenicians in the Mediterranean and Mr. Bicknell has given two seminars upon Numismatics and the Historian illustrated from the Department's collection of coin casts.

GEOGRAPHY

Mr. Edward Derbyshire has received an invitation from the National Science Foundation, Washington D.C., to spend fifteen days (November 1st to 15th) in Antarctica. He will accompany Professor Wakefield Dort of the University of Kansas, most attention being given to cirque forms and moraines in the dry valley area to the west of the Murdo Sound.

MODERN LANGUAGES

This term a group of staff members including the Dean and members of the Classics, English, History and Modern Languages Departments have been conducting a series of informal seminars on problems associated with the editing of texts.

During the week of 3rd - 7th October, Mr. Idrus (of the Indonesian and Malay Section) visited the Australian National University, Canberra and gave a series of lectures on modern Indonesian writers. At the same time, Mr. Achdiat K. Mihardja (of the Department of Indonesian Languages and Literature of the Faculty of Oriental Studies, Australian National University, Canberra) gave a similar series of lectures to Monash students. It is hoped that this form of university exchange will be repeated in future years.

As reported last month Mr. B.H. Jernudd of the Linguistics Section will be attending a conference in the United States of America early next month. A Monash University grant will now enable him to first visit Khartoum to continue his research on a Sudanese language, 'For'. He will then visit acoustic laboratories in Bonn, Stockholm and New York prior to attending the conference at Warrenton, Virginia.

The September 'Newsletter' of the New York University Institute for Computer Research in the Humanities has reported at length on work being carried out at Monash by Mrs. G. Silva in conjunction with Dr. C.J. Bellamy, Professor R. Laufer and various members of the English and Modern Languages Departments.

PATHOLOGY

Professor R.C. Nairn has returned from a successful trip to Europe, mainly in connection with the Pugwash Conference in Stockholm, on the "Automation of Immunofluorescence." During the trip, he lectured and held discussions in the United Kingdom, Netherlands and Austria.

Professor W.B. Wartman, Chairman of Pathology at Norweston University, Chicago and editor of "Year Book of Pathology and Clinical Pathology" spent a few days as Peter Grant Hay Visiting Professor to the Alfred Hospital where he participated in several discussions and delivered a Faculty Lecture entitled "Cardiomyopathy."
