Staff and Students 1961.

180 new students at Frankston's Teachers' College

From a beginning in 1906, with about 100 students in a large private home on the property, the Teachers' College this year has an enrollment of about 180 students, and anticipates the same apartment buildings.

Last week over 100 new students, recruited, mostly all of whom are drawn from the district, which extends across to Frankston, up to South Island, and includes the areas of the Peninsula. Schools in which these students may already possess practical experience, and it is hoped, already made the pathway, the students being drawn to the work, and, consequently, for the results.

Progress on the roads surrounding the buildings is being made, and it is hoped to be completed in the very early future. The present project is to provide accommodation for 200 students in 1952, and a temporary hostel, and it is all general under construction on the site.

Last Friday evening, the general staff students held a dance to welcome the new students, and the first social event for the new year.

The next social occasion will be a garden party for friends and parents on the afternoon of Monday 24, to which the public is cordially invited. The P.A.A. Fund will provide music, refreshments will be served, and the college buildings will be open for inspection. The District has been inundated by the Welfare Association, a body of parents and interested citizens, who it is hoped their parents of their students, particularly will make this an opportunity to visit the P.A.A. once again, and to view the college.

From a beginning in 1959, with about 100 students in a large private house on the property, the Teachers' College this year has an enrolment of over 350 students, and occupies its own spacious buildings.

Last week saw 180 new students enrolled, nearly all of whom are drawn from the district, which extends across to Dandenong, up to North Rd., and includes the whole of the Peninsula. Schools in which these numbers may obtain practical teaching experience are situated mainly along the railway line, the furthest being Mentone to the north, and Mornington to the south.

Progress on the roads surrounding the buildings is being made, and these should be completed in the very near future. The present project is for additional accommodation for 120 students in 1962, and a three-story hostel block is at present under construction on the site.

Last Friday evening, the second year students held a dance to welcome the new students, as the first social event for the year.

The next social occasion will be a garden party for friends and parents on the afternoon of March 18, to which the public is cordially invited. The R.A.A.F. Band will provide music, refreshments will be served, and the college buildings will be open for inspection. This function has been arranged by the Welfare Association, a body of parents and interested citizens, and it is hoped that parents of new students particularly will make this an opportunity to meet the staff, other parents, and to view the college.

Teachers' College has important role

The Teachers' College has become an important part of the Frankston scene. Now in its third year, the College has grown rapidly in numerical strength. However, the real strength of an educational centre cannot be measured by the size of the enrolment. Apart from the academic side, it is in the less tangible aspects of student life that the corporate strength of the College is reflected.

In sports and recreation, social functions, and many other activities, students are finding a close personal link with their college, which students at other boarding days are not. The new first grade girls were the Frankston College and students of the strength of the college as they stepped in stepped out. An all-school association has been formed and staff and general students alike have been delighted to see some "teams" in work functions, others from graduates now teaching elsewhere in the strength of the local institution.

This year promises to be a year of further expansion and progress in student affairs. First year students have elected their representatives to the Student Council which presides over all student interests and plans an all-school tour in the near future, and administrative staff of the College. The council is busy with planning a ball and inter-college year for 1961. The college's student representative body is as follows:

President, Miss Mary Gertrude Gillies; senior vice-president, Greta Leighton (Frankston); junior vice-president, Jan Dorey (Frankston); secretary, Miss Julia Leitch (Frankston); treasurer, Pauline McMillan (Frankston); public relations secretary, Miss Wendy Forbes (Frankston); sports and dramatics secretary, Miss Susan Paul (Frankston); girls' representative (senior), Peter Wilson (Frankston); girls' representative (junior), Miss M. Papworth (Frankston); girls' representative, Miss A. H. Pitt (Frankston); boys' representative, Martin Lynton (Frankston); boys' representative, Rossy Bellamy (Frankston); boys' representative, Michael (Frankston); boys' representative, Peter Jack (Frankston); girls' representative, Frank Robertson (Frankston); girls' representative, Patricia Christie (Frankston); girls' representative, Marie Brown (Frankston); girls' representative, Pam Dennis (Frankston); girls' representative, Erv Galloway (Frankston); girls' representative, Margaret Lorraine (Frankston); girls' representative, Neil Morrison (Frankston); girls' representative, Ross (Frankston).

The Teachers College and the Community

In the Australian community there is a growing interest in the role of the school as a social institution. Public interest in education has been growing steadily in "books and articles" contributions to local schools. There is a growing interest in the public schools which are being opened, but it is generally agreed that the function of the school is to pass on to the new generation the heritage of the past.

However, there is a growing interest in the school as a provider of education, not only in terms of the school itself but in terms of the community. The school is seen as a centre of social change, not only in terms of the school itself but in terms of the community. The school is seen as a centre of social change, not only in terms of the school itself but in terms of the community. The school is seen as a centre of social change, not only in terms of the school itself but in terms of the community.

The Teachers' College is a group of students and staff who are interested in the role of the school in the community. The Teachers' College has become an important part of the Frankston scene. Now in its third year, the College has grown rapidly in numerical strength. However, the real strength of an educational centre cannot be measured by the size of the enrolment. Apart from the academic side, it is in the less tangible aspects of student life that the corporate strength of the College is reflected.

In clubs and societies, in sporting meetings and social functions, and many other activities, students develop a close personal link with their college, which continues after training days are over. 1960 saw the first graduates leave the Frankston College and evidence of the strength of the corporate life they enjoyed is apparent still. An ex-students' association has been formed and staff and present students alike have been delighted to see many "exies" at social functions. Letters from graduates now teaching also testify to the strength of the bond established.

This year promises to be a year of further expansion and progress in student affairs. First year students have elected their representatives to the Student Council which presides over all student interests and plays an important role in the organisation and administration of the College. The council is hard at work planning a full and interesting year for 1961.

The complete Student representative Council is as follows:—

President, Miss Meg. Gardiner (Colac); senior vice-president, Graham Gaston (Frankston); junior vice-president, Jim Henry (Ormond); secretary, Doug. LeBas (Frankston); treasurer, Phil. Dix (Frankston); publications Max. Gillies (Moorabbin); social secretary, Miss Wendy Burns (Mentone); concert and dramatics secretary, Miss Susan Poit (Bentleigh); sport representative (women), Miss Jill Ward (Bentleigh); sport representative (men), Peter Watson (Frankston); staff representative, Miss M. Papworth; principal's representative, Mr. A. H. Fry; group representatives, Mercia Iggulden (Bentleigh), Rosemary Bellamy (Morningside), Sandra Durham (Moorabbin), Orme Lind (Dandenong), Peter Jack (McKinnon), Colin Robertson (Frankston), Patricia Clements (Mordialloc), Mardie Brown (Moorabbin), Pam Gasson (Moorabbin), Eril Gellie (Morningside), Margaret Luxmore (Aspendale), Neil Morrison (Rosebud), Rod Simpson (Mentone).

The Teachers College and the Community

In the Australian Community, there is often little interest in or knowledge of educational thought. Public interest in education is manifested mainly in "bricks and mortar" contributions to local schools. Views held by the public on educational aims are rather vague, but it is generally agreed that the function of the school is to pass on to the new generation the heritage of the past.

However, those engaged in the theory and practice of education believe that a school system that constantly looks backward is incapable of preparing young people to make adjustments to a constantly changing society. This basic difference in opinion is unfortunate as the work done in schools needs to be understood and reinforced by all sectors of the community. In the Frankston area the Teachers' College is striving to bridge this gap in a direct and practical way.

Early in 1960 a group of parents and citizens formed the Frankston Teachers' College Welfare Association. This organisation, which is the first of its kind in Victoria, states one of its primary aims as "the promotion and development of public relations between the college and the community which it serves." The college serves the whole of the Peninsula, and extends northward to Bentleigh and McKinnon, eastwards through Oakleigh, Springvale and Dandenong areas as far as Drouin and Warragul in Gippsland. The welfare association thus offers every thinking citizen in this vast area the opportunity of community service of real importance.

On Wednesday, April 19, the Welfare Association will hold a meeting in the college staff room at 8 p.m. At this meeting office-bearers for the ensuing year will be elected. Parents in particular should welcome the opportunity of ascertaining at first hand the educational aims and objectives of our system while rendering valuable service to the college and to the future teachers of this state.

R. A. F. Band
at Garden Party

White sea-horse coiled in encircling oval on a navy-blue background is the Frankston Teachers' College flag. Last Saturday afternoon it pointed the way to the garden party held in the grounds by the principal, Mr. Eunson and the Welfare Association of the College.

On the lawns under sun umbrellas the guests enjoyed the "late summer" sunshine while being entertained by music played by the Royal Australian Air Force concert band.

Guests included Mr. Robert Lindsay, M.H.R., and Mr. W. P. Mair, M.L.C., and Mrs. Mair. A silk suit of anthracite grey and matching cloche were worn by Mrs. Mair who carried a canary yellow sunshade.

Guests wandered through the college and admired the spacious spic-and-span lecture rooms complete with every modern gadget.

Through the sparkling windows Miss D. Kentish, senior feminine member of teaching staff, showed me the archery ground and the hockey field. I asked her how so many windows were kept so spotless. With a twinkle in her eye she professed profound ignorance.

On the other side of the building is the red girder skeleton of the new students hostel already etched stark against the skyline.

On the way out I peered through the windows of the cottage near the college gates. By the courtesy of Mr. Eunson and the Ministry of Education, this is the new headquarters of the Frankston Art Society.

Have you done your I.S.M.?

Many people are unaware of the nature and extent of training provided at the Teachers' College. May be they realize the best gained by the schools of this area in the training of students. This fact, who brought home to the following: (1) the training with emphasis of students using I.S.M.

These advanced education included such apparently basic questions as "Are you in or out?" "Where are you?" and "How are you?" I.S.M. (1) (2) (3) (4) (5) (6) (7) (8) (9) (10) (11) (12) (13) (14) (15) (16) (17) (18) (19) (20) (21) (22) (23) (24) (25) (26) (27) (28) (29) (30) (31) (32) (33) (34) (35) (36) (37) (38) (39) (40) (41) (42) (43) (44) (45) (46) (47) (48) (49) (50) (51) (52) (53) (54) (55) (56) (57) (58) (59) (60) (61) (62) (63) (64) (65) (66) (67) (68) (69) (70) (71) (72) (73) (74) (75) (76) (77) (78) (79) (80) (81) (82) (83) (84) (85) (86) (87) (88) (89) (90) (91) (92) (93) (94) (95) (96) (97) (98) (99) (100)

As a student progresses in the study of I.S.M. he gradually ceases to be a student and becomes a teacher. He is no longer a student in the school of all. The students were quick to begin and especially in their studies, but a few months of the school course have been such a wide public.

The two year course for the Teachers' College

Teachers' College consists of two years of general education, followed by two years of teaching preparation. At regular intervals during the course, each student spends a period of three weeks attached to a Children's Training School. All these schools from Madison south to Mississippi are staffed with specially qualified teachers who guide and direct the practical training of the student in the classroom.

During their three week "teaching period" the young teachers are required to prepare and teach two lessons per day. The class teacher writes an evaluation of the student's work in each lesson, and during their second college semester visit the school to make an additional evaluation of the student's progress. These evaluations are familiarly known as "crits" or criticisms, and on their return to College following this work in the schools, students compare their crits with some friends.

The student's experience in the field are used as the basis for formal theoretical instruction in the college by application in teaching methods, e.g., I.S.M. (1) (2) (3) (4) (5) (6) (7) (8) (9) (10) (11) (12) (13) (14) (15) (16) (17) (18) (19) (20) (21) (22) (23) (24) (25) (26) (27) (28) (29) (30) (31) (32) (33) (34) (35) (36) (37) (38) (39) (40) (41) (42) (43) (44) (45) (46) (47) (48) (49) (50) (51) (52) (53) (54) (55) (56) (57) (58) (59) (60) (61) (62) (63) (64) (65) (66) (67) (68) (69) (70) (71) (72) (73) (74) (75) (76) (77) (78) (79) (80) (81) (82) (83) (84) (85) (86) (87) (88) (89) (90) (91) (92) (93) (94) (95) (96) (97) (98) (99) (100) two years of the course. From this level onward it may be seen that a desirable balance is maintained between theoretical training in the techniques of teaching, and the students' study required for this important profession.

Winter Sport for Teachers' College

Wednesday, April 24, saw the beginning of winter sports for the Madison Teachers' College. The contests take place between Madison, Toccoa, Barwood, Olin and Frankton. This year there is an interesting new element — the men's Police College and the women's Institute. Arts College acting in combination.

Frankton was drawn against the largest college of all, and the teams put up very creditable performances. Bowls, in football, softball, golf, table tennis, Frankton won in basketball, badminton, handball (one team) and squash.

During the same week, Shakespeare Day was celebrated with songs and drama. An unusual Event Twelfth Night was presented and, as an introduction to this, a scene which suggested the way in which Queen Elizabeth I might have initiated the play with playwright Will Shakespeare.

Rehearsals for the staging of Our Town are proceeding satisfactorily. This big play will be staged on May 11 and 12. Bookings can be arranged by ringing the college office.

Have you done your I.S.M.?

Many people are unaware of the nature and extent of training provided at the Teachers' College. Nor do they realise the part played by the schools of this area in the training of students. This fact was brought home to the writer when travelling with a group of students quite recently.

Their animated conversation included such apparently inane questions as "Are you in or out?" "Where are you?" and "Have you done your I.S.M.?" Oblivious of the glances exchanged between their fellow-passengers, the students continued to chat.

An elderly gentleman who could contain his curiosity no longer, finally voiced the question in the minds of all. The students were quick to explain and apologetic for their exuberance, but a brief outline of the college courses here may reach a wider public.

The two year course for the Trained Primary

Teachers' Certificate consists of two major sectors, practical teaching or field work and academic study. At regular intervals during the course each student spends a period of three weeks attached to a College Training School. All State Schools from Mordialloc south to Mornington are staffed with specially qualified teachers who guide and direct the practical training of the student in the classroom.

During their three week "teaching round", the young trainees are required to prepare and teach two lessons per day. The class teacher writes an evaluation of the student's work in each lesson, and during their round college lecturers visit the school to make an additional evaluation of the student's progress. These evaluations are familiarly known as "crits" or criticisms, and on their return to College following field work in the schools, students compare their crits with some fervour.

The student's experiences in the field are used as the basis for further theoretical instruction at the college by specialists in teaching methods, e.g., I.S.M. — Infant School Method. In addition, there is a solid course of academic study to be covered during the two years of the course.

From this brief account it can be seen that a desirable balance is maintained between the practical training in the techniques of teaching, and the academic study required for this important profession.

Winter Sport for Teachers' College

Wednesday, April 26, saw the beginning of winter sport for the Melbourne Teachers' Colleges. The contests take place between Melbourne, Toorak, Burwood, Coburg and Frankston. This year, there is an interesting new entrant — the men's Police College and the women's Domestic Arts College acting in combination.

Frankston was drawn against the largest college of all, and its teams put up very creditable performances. Beaten in football, softball, golf, table-tennis, Frankston won in hockey, badminton, basketball (two teams) and squash.

During the same week, Shakespeare Day was celebrated with songs and drama. An excerpt from Twelfth Night was presented and, as an introduction to this, a scene which suggested the way in which Queen Elizabeth I might have initiated the play with playwright Will Shakespeare.

Rehearsals for the staging of Our Town are proceeding enthusiastically. This fine play will be staged on May 11 and 12. Bookings can be arranged by ringing the college, 3-2393.

Outstanding Record of Sporting Success

Sport is an important aspect of the Australian way of life. Overseas commentators are often astounded at the success of Australian competitors in international contests. Despite our relatively small population, we regularly produce champions in one field or another.

Many reasons have been advanced for our successes, but one that is often overlooked is the role played by our teachers. The physical development of the school child is just as important as other aspects of his development, and our schools and the teachers in them are conscious of the need to foster children's interests in sport. In school it is an important aspect of development, and in later years, a profitable means of spending leisure time.

There is no doubt that children's sporting interests are well-served as when one considers the outstanding STANDARD many teachers have attained personally.

Among the Colin Macdonald, Brian Booth, John Gandy, Mary Gaudin, Warwick Jeffrey, Brian Jones, John James, Neil Roberts, Keith McPherson and many others are known Australia-wide. When teachers are able and interested, students profit from their experience and when by implication their efforts.

It is most interesting to see that the students in training in our Teachers' College are given every opportunity to develop their sporting ability. President of Teachers' College in only its third year of existence, has established a wonderful record.

During the winter term sporting contests are played against the other six Teachers' Colleges in the Metropolitan area. Though the smallest College in number, this year Frankston has finished the State in an era of intense competitive sports contests.

Swimming, Basketball and Tennis teams are in the District Final while badminton, table tennis and hockey teams are in the semi-final. The Sports team were represented during the State and have shown all hope to win their second successive championship.

The success of our College sports is due to the devoted help of all staff members and especially the supervising teams. The outstanding record of success established is an great measure due to the leadership shown of work done by the Physical Education Department. Mr. F. Laid and Mrs. Gaudin, but in the first place it is the staff and students who are to be wholeheartedly congratulated for their efforts.

The Australian tradition of high standards of achievement, and sportsmanship, is being kept up by such young people.

Exam week at Teachers' College

There has been an air of special interest about the Teachers' College in the past few weeks. Furs, rowed brows and white, drawn faces and pages of notes and the unusual visitor can quite easily find himself drawn into a discussion on topics ranging from psychology to poetry, or from social studies to science.

The annual examinations are close, and students prepared to sit high-stakes tests for "honors" are productive of anxiety and worry in any educational institution.

To the trained teachers, the final examinations are important for many reasons. The results of examinations will determine not only academic, but placement in schools for 1942, while for a few students, success in the examination will lead to further study opportunities. Extended courses are available to selected students in many fields. University courses in arts, science, music, commerce and physical education are offered to students in college, and a few students each year go on to obtain degrees and diplomas immediately after their college course. Other students enter special fields by taking post-college courses in literary work, arts and crafts, the teaching of mentally handicapped children, domestic arts, speech therapy and the teaching of the deaf.

However, the vast majority of students go out to schools scattered over the length and breadth of the State, so that the College motto "To the Horizon" has a literal, as well as a symbolic meaning for the young teachers who will walk on Monday morning for the signal to begin.

PRINCIPAL OF TEACHERS' COLLEGE FOR OVERSEAS

Mr. Warwick Estess,
B.A., B.Ed., Principal of the Franklin Teachers College, has been awarded the Education Department's Traveling Scholarship for

This scholarship is awarded annually to enable local leaders to enable them to visit other countries and study the latest developments in educational theory and practice. The staff and members of the college are proud of the honor thus bestowed on Mr. Estess, and join with the community in congratulating him on the award.

Interviewed at the college this week, Mr. Estess said that the main purpose of his visit would be to study teacher training practices in the United Kingdom and the United States of America. He said that he hoped to visit Teachers' Colleges in England, Scotland and the U.S.A., and that his experience as principal of Franklin Teachers' College would enable him to make a valuable education comparison study of the problems associated with teacher education. These experiences, he hoped, would, he said, enable him to guide and develop the program of Franklin Teachers' College on its return.

Mr. and Mrs. Estess will sail for England on the "Orizaba" on January 1, 1950. They will spend nine months in the United Kingdom and then cross the Atlantic to New York. After visiting school systems in Chicago and Detroit, they will cross the U.S.A. to California, and on their return journey will stop in San Francisco early in 1950.

COLLEGE

The drama group at the Frankston Teachers' College is now busy with rehearsals and production of one of this country's best-loved plays, "Our Town," by Thornton Wilder. The story is charming and poignant. The stage settings are also striking.

No attempt is made to present real streets, houses, gardens or church etc. Wilder believed that the audience feels more when it is asked to imagine more, much as was done in Shakespeare's time.

Direction is in the hands of the lecturer in speech and drama, Mrs. Margaret Brown, already well-known in Frankston Repertory.

A leading role will be played by second-year student Max Gillies who has been commended by Melbourne critics for his Irish role in the current Melbourne Society play at the Union Theatre. A very capable body of students is working enthusiastically on stage and behind it. The play will be presented on Thursday and Friday, May 11 and 12, in the College Hall.

Supplementing this major production are scenes and songs from Shakespeare, to be staged before the student audience, in celebration of the playwright's birthday, April 23. For this, the drama and music societies will merge their activities.

The Tourists

Teachers' College on Tour

During their teaching students from the College are given the opportunity of travelling in various parts of Australia on educational tours.

This year, six parties of students travelled in the following places — Perth, Alice Springs, Bendigo, North Darwin, Hobart, Newcastle.

More than 200 students showed their knowledge of Australia to Miss Pearson and returned with a rich and varied amount of material for each party.

An account of the Central Australia tour including the interesting and educational travel experiences the young teachers will see in time.

The central tour began from Melbourne on Wednesday, December 12, and returned on September 21, occupying overnight in Adelaide. The party proceeded by rail to Alice, where the local group joined the national train that crosses the center — "The Ghan".

After a short stay in Alice Springs, the party proceeded to Darwin by rail via the Northern Territory, passing through the country made so famous by the work of geographical pioneer Alfred Haddon, then down to Port Darwin. The train returned to Melbourne via Sydney and Brisbane.

Returning to College between the following day was difficult but necessary. Each party of students, together with the staff members who accompanied the students, will spend many hours comparing experiences and impressions, and their teaching backgrounds will be the richer for their experiences.

During their training, students from the College are given the opportunity of travelling to various parts of Australia on educational tours.

This year, six parties of students travelled to the following places: — Perth, Alice Springs, Bundaberg, Surfers' Paradise, Hobart, Wandiligong.

More than 200 students widened their knowledge of Australia in this pleasant and informal way. A male and female member of staff accompanied each party.

An account of the Central Australia tour indicates the interesting and educational travel experiences the young teachers enjoy on tour.

The nine-day tour began from Melbourne on Wednesday, September 12, and returned on September 21. Stopping overnight in Adelaide, the party proceeded by rail to Moree, where the tired group joined the famous train that serves the centre—"The Ghan".

After a short stay in Alice Springs, the party journeyed by bus to Palm Valley Lodge via the Hermannsburg Mission, passing through the country made so familiar by the work of aboriginal painter Albert Namatjira. After three days at Palm Valley, the tourists returned to "Alice" by road. There they enjoyed a brief rest, and then boarded a plane which flew them back to Melbourne via Broken Hill.

Returning to College lectures the following day was difficult but necessary. Each party of tourists, together with the staff members who accompanied the students, will spend many hours comparing experiences and anecdotes, and their teaching backgrounds will be the richer for their experiences.

'61 GANG SHOW HIT JACKPOT

Stage at the Teachers' College, Frankston, last Saturday night, creaked, groaned and quivered as 12 stalwart gangsters, with locked aims and elephantine thumping, tapped the French Can-Can to the music of Ta-ra-ra-boom-de-ay, played with all stops out.

A panel fell out of the stage from a both Friday and Saturday nights at this point when the Bay Sports' Association, aided by local talent, presented "The Gang Show," 1961, for the funds of the St. Frankston Sea Sea and the Frankston Teachers' College parents' associations.

It was an all-male cast, and many of the rib-ticking variety items got most applause from ludicrous interpretations of "traditional" Russian ballet.

Thought "Spring" last night being, dancing and an Italian, heavy joust was occurring the stage with wild boomerang music to super quick-shooting gibbon birds of excitement, music in about 90th hole 400th with dramatic music.

"Dumbel Island" was a traditional presentation of vibrant, danced over clothes with vibrant lighting effects.

The police and private cars of "The Garden Street" Michael "John" were trip and with.

All the performers were amateurs. They came from all walks of life and are being supported with the usual assistance of Doug Clarke, producer of "The Melbourne Gang Show" and a Director of the production, was in the audience.

Peter Hart, who trained members of the Frankston Sea Sea to take some of the parts, is the only one of the original Gang Show, incidentally, the full Police Version, St. 1961, without headline effort, never in the case of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hart, of Frankston. Mrs. Hart is vice-president of the St. Frankston Sea Sea, and the Frankston Teachers' College Women's Association.

Mr. Jim Wile of St. 1961, with Mrs. Wile, was there to see his son, Stephen and James, to their work. Mr. Wile is president of the Sea Sea Sea Parents' Association.

Mr. Warwick Evans, President of the Teachers' College, with Mrs. Evans, saw their son, Paul, perform.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Taylor, Mrs. Ted Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Ross Mitchell were other parents appearing their offspring.

Mr. Robert "Bob" M.R.A. C. & F. Brown, President of the St. Frankston, and Mrs. Brown, and Mr. Charles Brown, President of the Frankston College Women's Association and Mrs. Mack were attended the performance in Saturday night. Consulting with the St. Frankston gangsters in their work Peter Hart, Richard Huggins, Peter Turner, the group and Russell Mack, Harry Smith, Frank Smith, Harold Duden, Graham Mitchell, Ian Bowring, G. Butler, Stephen Nicholas, Bruce Bowring, Graham Wilson, Peter and Robert Phillips, Warren Pye, Ray Brown, Bruce Hayward, Paul Wain, Donald Dymally, Ian Mackintosh, Warwick Lee, Paul Brown, Paul Phillips, John Mackintosh, Bruce Mackintosh, Stu Phillips, Peter Grant and Bob Smith.

GANG SHOW BOOKING OPENS

Tickets are available and seats may be reserved at Frankston Teachers' College, 100 Montagu, Frankston, or from Mrs. J. Grant, Frankston, 5-3000.

GANG SHOW BOOKING OPENS

Next week members of the Frankston Sea Scout Group will combine with the "Gangsters" to form a cast of 80 to entertain local people. The show will be staged at the Frankston Teachers' College, corner McMahan and Hastings-rds., on Friday, August 4 and Saturday, August 5.

61 GANG SHOW HIT JACKPOT

Stage at the Teachers' College, Frankston, last Saturday night, creaked, groaned and quivered as 12 stalwart gangsters, with locked arms and elephantine thumping, tapped the French Can-Can to the music of Ta-ra-boom-de-ay, played with all stops out.

A panel fell out of the stage front on both Friday and Saturday nights at this point when the Boy Scouts' Association, aided by local talent, presented "The Gang Show," 1961, for the funds of the 5th Frankston Sea Scouts and the Frankston Teachers' College parents' associations.

It was an all-male cast, and many of the rib-tickling variety items got most applause from ludicrous interpretations of "traditional" Russian ballet.

I thought "Spring" terribly funny. Scantly clad as fairies, husky young men cavorted the stage with white feather-winged cupids in diaper pants shooting golden darts at pantomime-damish females in short pink tulle skirts—with disastrous results.

"Cannibal Island" was a musical presentation of vibrant movement and violent color clashes with excellent lighting effects.

The patter and presentation of "The Garden Maud Walked Into," were original and witty.

All the performers were amateurs. They came from all walks of life and are closely associated with the scout movement.

Doug Clarke, producer of the Melbourne Gang Show, and a District Commissioner, was in the audience.

Peter Hart, who trained members of the Frankston Sea Scouts to take some of the parts, is the only local of the original Gang Show. Incidentally, the full Gang Show can fill the Palais Theatre, St. Kilda, without box-office effort. Peter is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Les Hart, of Frankston. Mrs. Hart is vice-president of the 5th Frankston Sea Scouts, and the Frankston Teachers' College Welfare Association.

Mr. Jim Willis of Mt. Eliza, with Mrs. Willis, was there to see his sons, Stephen and Simon do their stuff. Mr. Willis is president of the Sea Scouts Parents' Association.

Mr. Warwick Eunson, Principal of the Teachers' College, with Mrs. Eunson, saw their son, Paul, perform.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Turner, Mrs. Ted Hauser and Mr. and Mrs. Stan Mitchell were other parents applauding their offspring.

Mr. Robert Lindsay, M.H.R.; Cr. J. F. Bowes, President of the Shire of Frankston, and Mrs. Bowes; and Mr. Charles Metters, President of the Teachers' College Welfare Association and Mrs. Metters attended the performance on Saturday night.

Consorting with the Melbourne gangsters on stage were Peter Hart, Richard Hauser, Peter Turner, Stephen and Simon Willis, Barry Such, Frank Dank, Stewart Boden, Graham Mitchell, Ian Bowring, G. Butler, Stephen Nicholson, Bruce Bowring, Graham Wilson, Peter and Robert Fleming, Warren Fry, Reg Byrne, Bevis Hayward, Peter West, Donald Peters, Orm McDonald, Warwick Luff, Paul Eunson, Tony Pascall, John McKay, Robin McKenzie, Jim Butler, Peter Card and Ray Hoath.

"The Gondoliers"

"The Gondoliers"

A GILBERT AND SULLIVAN PRODUCTION
BY FRANKSTON TEACHERS' COLLEGE

'The Gondoliers' at Teachers' College

For over 25 years Gilbert and Sullivan opera has delighted audiences throughout the English speaking world. Following the lapse of copyright in 1911, there has been considerable speculation as to the future of these musical favorites.

In the short space of time that has elapsed an effort must be set on foot, but it is heartening to see a new generation enthusiastically supporting Gilbert and Sullivan.

In recent years Teachers' College in Victoria have been most successful in helping to win new popularity for the happy operas, and President is glad to associate itself with this movement. The College's first production will be "The Gondoliers", perhaps the most popular of all the sparkling Gilbert and Sullivan operas. The Madrasienne series provides a spectacular scenic element and Sullivan's score abounds with light-hearted and enchanting melody.

"The Gondoliers" will run for a three night season in the College Hall on August 29, 30 and 31 and a matinee for children will be presented on the afternoon of August 26. Booking has been heavy, but good seats are still available on each night. Tickets may be reserved by ringing the College at Franklin 3-2505, ext. 28.

"The Duchess" (Gloria Kingley, of Buxton), "The Duke of Florenz" (Max Gillies, of Highett), "Cosido" (Marion Fallett, of Heatherford) and "Luca" (Douglas Baker, of Frankston) are the four main roles in the production of "The Gondoliers" which was presented by the Student Teachers of the Teachers' College, Frankston, at the College last night, and will continue tonight (Wednesday) and tomorrow night, August 30 and 31.

In the short space of time that has elapsed no overall trend is yet discernable, but it is heartening to see a new generation enthusiastically supporting Gilbert and Sullivan.

The Mediterranean setting provides a spectacular scenic element and Sullivan's score abounds with lighthearted and captivating melody.

"The Gondoliers" will run for a three night season in the College Hall on August 29, 30 and 31 and a matinee for schools will be presented on the afternoon of August 29. College is not dull for Trainee Teachers

If any of the students of the Franklin Teachers' College find life dull it certainly is not because life there is all work and no play.

The past year, college life is packed with interesting and varied activity.

Students operate such groups as a Public Affairs Club, a Jazz Club and a Photography Club. The Student Representative Council and other groups within the college initiate and plan events such as theatre parties, balls and social functions.

In sport all interests are catered for. On Wednesday afternoons the ladies can see sports such as Archery, rifle shooting, hockey, football, basketball, table tennis and basketball in the college grounds, while outside the college campus, students enjoy football, squash, horse riding, tennis, rowing, swimming and golf in their intervals leisure.

However, students also participate in other activities which reduce their consciousness of the position of those less fortunate than themselves. Social service groups are active supporting institutions such as the Mission Home for Boys, the Cheltenham Old Men's Home, and the Revuehouse of St. Elizabeth.

Each college group is encouraged to support other charitable causes for the year. Our F.F.O.U. has adopted the St. John of God Home for Boys in Cheltenham. This group has spent many Monday afternoons painting the buildings of the institution. Some 40 photos of paid have been enthusiastically acquired. In this group in the last few months.

Further evidence of unselfish interest is displayed by students who assist in the reconstruction and development of the college grounds. Students have commenced an ambitious tree-planting scheme, and with the aid of the welfare association, have worked hard to develop the grounds of the college.

A further aspect of college life is the continuing emphasis placed on the theatre. Following the successful production of "The Town" earlier in the year, tremendous interest is being displayed in the coming production of "The Goodbye". This popular Gilbert and Sullivan opera will be presented in August. Last year's student drama was described by a discerning critic as the best student effort he had seen.

College is not dull for Trainee Teachers

If any of the students at the Frankston Teachers' College find life dull it certainly is not because life there is all work and no play.

The past week, college life is packed with interesting and varied activities.

Students operate such groups as a Public Affairs Club, a Jazz Club and a Photography Club. The Students' Representative Council and other groups within the college discuss and plan events such as theatre parties, balls and social functions.

In sport all interests are catered for. On Wednesday afternoons the visitors can see sports such as archery, rifle shooting, hockey, golf, tennis, basketball, table tennis and basketball in the college grounds, while inside the college campus students enjoy football, squash, horse riding, tennis, swimming, rowing and golf on the adjacent beach.

Besides, students also participate in other activities which include their maintenance of the grounds of their own programme and themselves. Social service groups are actively supported institutions such as the Menzies Home for Boys, the Chelmsford Old Man's Home and the Brotherhood of St. Laurence.

Each college group is encouraged to support one charitable cause for the year. One group has adopted the St. John of God Home for Boys at Chelsea Hill. This group has spent many Monday afternoons painting the buildings of the institution. Some 20 pictures of local birds have been artistically applied by this group in the last few months.

Further evidence of an active interest is displayed by students who assist in the maintenance and development of the college grounds. Students have commenced an ambitious landscaping scheme, and with the aid of the college horticulturist, have worked hard to develop the grounds of the college.

A further aspect of college life is the continuing emphasis placed on the theatre. Following the successful production of "Our Town" earlier in the year, considerable interest is being displayed in the coming production of "The Goodbye." This production Gilbert and Sullivan opera will be presented in August. Last year's student revue was described by a distinguished critic as the best student revue he had seen.

The year round, college life is packed with interesting and varied activity.

In sport all interests are catered for. On Wednesday afternoons the visitor can see sports such as archery, rifle shooting, hockey, softball, badminton, table tennis and basketball in the college grounds, while outside the college campus, students enjoy football, squash, horse riding, tennis, yachting, swimming and golf as their interests demand.

However, students also participate in other activities which indicate their consciousness of the position of those less fortunate than themselves. Social service groups are actively supporting institutions such as the Menzies Home for Boys, the Cheltenham Old Men's Home and the Brotherhood of St. Laurence.

Each college group is encouraged to support one charitable cause for the year. One group has adopted the St. John of God Home for Boys at Cheltenham. This group has spent many Sunday afternoons painting the buildings of the institution. Some 40 gallons of paint have been enthusiastically applied by this group in the last few months.

Further evidence of unselfish interest is displayed by students who assist in the maintenance and development of the college grounds. Students have commenced an ambitious tree-planting scheme, and with the aid of the welfare association, have worked hard to develop the grounds of the college.

A further aspect of college life is the continuing emphasis placed on the theatre. Following the successful production of "Our Town" earlier in the year, tremendous interest is being displayed in the coming production of "The Gondoliers." This popular Gilbert and Sullivan opera will be presented in August. Last year's student Revue was described by a discriminating critic as the best student revue he had seen.
